Reds Charge Neutral Zone Violated By U.N.

Gen. Ridgway Declares Result Of Truce Talks Cannot "Be Accurately Foretold"

MUNSAN, Korea, Tuesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators today renewed their cease-fire talks in an atmosphere of tension whipped up by new Red charges of U. N. security violations.

The implied threat of a new snarl in negotiations cast its shadow over the circus tent at Panmunjom where the joint subcommittee met at 11 a. m. (9 p. m., EST, Monday).

The Chinese Comunist radio at Peiping broadcast a new charge that U. N. warplanes flew over the Panmunjom area Sunday and Monday. Both sides agreed that such flights should be prohibited except under "weather or technical conditions beyond control."

In Tokyo, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned that the outcome of the Panmunjom talks can not "be accurately foretold."

Peiping Radio Blasts U. N.

Ridgway's statement declared it would also be difficult to predict what would follow the "success or failure of these discussions." His message was sent to a meeting of the National Association of Radio News Directors in Chicago.

A semi-official Communist commentary, broadcast by the Peiping radio, lashed at the United Nations command for failing to accept a Communist proposal for drawing a buffer zone across Korea immediately.

The Red broadcast said Allied "persistence in postponing this task to an unpredictable future date when the armistice agreement will be signed. . .could only mean premeditated delay on this point indefinitely. . . ."

A seven-line U. N. communique Monday night said settlement of the buffer zone issue was "no near solution" after a four-hour 15-minute session during the day.

Nuckols Non-Committal

Future prospects of the negotiations brought non-committal comments from the U. N. Command spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols.

"What's in the wind I do not know; what may be suggested, I will not prophesy," he told correspondents.

Seemingly close together on where to draw a buffer zone across Korea to stop the fighting, the Reds and Allies were at loggerheads on when to do so.

Nuckols said, "we shall continue to press for a line and zone to be established at the time of an armistice."

The Reds want the cease-fire line established right now.

Eden Asks Truce To 'Name-Calling' In United Nations

Poland Fires Back With More Abuse

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today appealed for a truce to "name-calling and angry words" in the United Nations. He urged the Russians to quit laughing and study seriously the Western Big Three's arms census and limitation plan as a new start on the road to peace.

The answer to what many delegates regarded as a conciliatory approach by Eden in his first U. N. speech since the days of the San Francisco founding conference in 1945 was not long coming. Polish Delegate Stefan Wierblowski fired back in the Assembly that the arms proposals laid down by Secretary of State Dean Acheson and backed firmly by Eden today are "another maneuver x x x masqueraded in a cloak of peace initiative."

Vishinsky To Speak Again

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky also served notice he will speak at the end of the debate, perhaps late this week, to answer Eden, Acheson and others.

Eden said Vishinsky's "cataract of abuse" against the Big Three proposals "saddened me, as I think it must have saddened and discouraged the millions throughout the world who read or heard of it."

"In all our actions we seek peace," he said, speaking firmly while Vishinsky who has said he could not read the Western proposal without laughing, sat back and listened.

Applause Greets Pledge

"Yet our proposals are laughed to scorn. I must admit that I do not understand or accept such methods. I do not believe—or ask you to believe — that in any dispute one party is one hundred per cent a black villian, and the other one hundred per cent snow white. That's against the law of averages.

"All men are fallible, and peace can only rest on mutual forebearance and restraint. Should we not, then, do much better to proclaim a truce to name calling and angry words? Could we not instead apply our minds dispassionately to serious problems? I am sure that we should: Shall we try from now on? Mr. President, that will be my task."

A rolling burst of applause from the crowded chamber greeted his pledge.

Churchill Wins Confidence Vote

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill's Conservative government tonight won its first vote of confidence in the new House of Commons by a 39-vote margin.

The House of Commons rejected by a vote of 320 to 281 a Labor Party amendment expressing regret that the king's speech opening parliament had voiced a determination to repeal the nationalization of the steel industry. The king's speech is written by the cabinet in power.

Acceptance of the amendment would have meant that Churchill's government, which took office Oct. 26, would have had to resign immediately.

The Labor government nationalized Britain's steel industry in February, 1951, after a long fight in Commons. Although ownership of the companies has been vested in the government, little has been done thus far to bring them under state control because of the complexity of the industry.

One of the Conservative pledges for the Oct. 25 general election was that the party would return steel to private enterprise.

Delos Rentzel Resigns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Delos W. Rentzel resigned as under-Secretary of commerce for transportation today to take a post in private industry.

The resignation, effective Nov. 20, was announced at the "Little White House" in Key West, Fla., where President Truman is vacationing.

Doughboys Seize Two Hills In Central Korea

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Wednesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—Attacking in an all-day drizzle, doughboys advanced three-quarters of a mile Monday and seized two slippery hills southwest of Kumsong on the Korean central front.

The dismal weather held the U. S. Fifth Air Force to its slowest day of the entire war. Only six effective sorties were reported as the rain, heavy clouds and fog shrouded North Korea. Two reconnaissance planes managed to complete weather observation missions, while four B-26 bombers used radar to hit Red front positions.

On the eastern front, two company-sized Red attacks were repulsed northwest of Yanggu. In that same sector the Reds failed in six attacks Sunday, when the weather was good.

Navy Pilot Killed

LOS ALAMITOS NAVAL AIR STATION, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—A Navy pilot was killed and a civilian flier injured in a collision of their planes over the town of Stanton, three miles northeast of here, today.

The Navy plane, an F6F Grumman Hellcat from this station, plummeted into the backyard orchard of J. F. Robison and burned before the pilot could be rescued, the Navy reported.

Judy Garland Recovering; Show Closed Until Friday

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Judy Garland was reported recovering today after a backstage collapse at the Palace Theater. But her show closed until Friday.

The Palace made no attempt to go on without the star. It closed its doors for the eight performances between now and Friday night, although all were sold out.

The theater seats 1,650 persons. Judy's smash performances have been playing to standing-room-only audiences.

A medical report said Miss Garland "rested comfortably" all day and may be up and around later tonight. But the Palace announcement said she plans a few days' rest before going back of the footlights again.

The 29-year-old Judy—the comeback darling of Broadway—faltered on the famous old Palace stage during last night's show. She made it backstage before she collapsed.

Her physician, Dr. Udall J. Salmon, blamed "nervous exhaustion." He said her heart was sound because he had examined it earlier in the day when she didn't seem up to par.

Dr. Salmon, trying to slow down her hectic comeback schedule, said he tried to talk her out of going on last night. But Judy, a trouper all her life, turned him down with the classic stage remark that "the show must go on."

Churchill May Ask A-Secrets, Stalin Meeting

Will Bring Three Top Aides To U. S.

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill indicated today by his choice of three ministers as traveling companions that he wants to talk about atomic secrets, Britain's feeble economy and a meeting with Stalin when he visits President Truman early in January.

A wide range of Anglo-American foreign policies and Western strategy will enter into the talks, it was indicated in a 48-word statement from No. 10 Downing Street.

It said Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden; Lord Ismay, secretary for commonwealth relations, and Paymaster General Lord Cherwell would go with Churchill to Washington "in the first days of January."

Cherwell Heads Atom Program

Lord Cherwell long has been a personal advisor to Churchill on scientific matters and is in charge of Britain's atomic energy program. Churchill is eager to restore the wartime British-American partnership in atomic development. He is reported to have ordered Cherwell to test Britain's first bomb within six months if possible in order to restore sinking British prestige among many smaller countries of the world. He likely will take steps to reassure Americans of Britain's security arrangements in a bid for greater sharing of atomic secrets.

Lord Ismay was Churchill's right-hand man during the war in drawing together the many strands of military and strategic policy. He also has first hand experience in British economic affairs and gained wide knowledge of Asian affairs when he was advisor to Viceroy Lord Mountbatten in India at the time of partition.

Churchill is expected to seek a closer Anglo-American partnership within the sprawling Atlantic alliance. It would necessarily be an unwritten arrangement — perhaps similar to that during the war. Officials hope it will bring Britain a more active American backing in her many political, economic and military woes.

Change In Franco Policy Due

In return, Churchill may undertake to march in closer step with the United States in world affairs.

A sign of that movement was given today. It concerned Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime in Spain which Britatin has deemed fascist.

Troops Protect Filipino Voters

MANILA, Tuesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—Fighting between the Philippines army and Communist Huks flared north of Manila Monday as die-hard Reds made fresh attempts to disrupt today's Philippine elections.

There are some 4,000,000 registered voters throughout the island. Most are expected to go to the polls under the protection of more than 66,000 Philippines army regulars and reservists. Thousands of volunteer non-partisan poll watchers also were on hand.

National Defense Secretary Ramon Magsaysay pledged the aid of the army to prevent intimidation of voters by armed gangs, a common practice in the past.

The critical off-year election will decide the seats of nine senators-at-large, 46 provincial governors and all city mayors and councilmen.

The campaign since mid-September has been splattered by violence both by the Communist-led Huks and gun-toting followers by rival candidates. The death tool alone stands at 96 persons, while others including poll watchers and election officials have been adbucted and injured.

Car Rips Through Another In Train Wreck

Death marked the trail of this car as it ripped through another in the wreck yesterday of two Union Pacific passenger trains during a snowstorm in Wyoming. Passengers had no warning as one train smashed into the rear of a standing streamliner. At least 21 were killed. Six others were listed as missing. Scores were injured, eight of them seriously.

Rayburn Fires Heavy Broadside At "Dixiecrats"

Southern Governors Asked To Back Party

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 12 (AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas pleaded with southern governors tonight to remain loyal to the Democratic nominee in next year's presidential election — or see the South's position crumble in Congress.

The Texan fired a hard-hitting broadside against States Righters who have been talking of revolt if Mr. Truman is the party's presidential nominee.

"I'm going to support the Democratic nominee whoever he is," Rayburn declared.

Revolt Would Elect Republican

He said a southern revolt would only elect a Republican president and could not elect an independent candidate. Then he added: "And every southern man who holds a responsible place in Congress will lose his position."

Rayburn first outlined the theme of his address at a news conference shortly before he carried his plea to the southern governors conference where there has been talk of a Dixie revolt against Mr. Truman. Rayburn was to speak at the annual state dinner.

Earlier, Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia said the southern anti-Truman leaders could organize a "beat Truman campaign" within 48 hours—but this was not the time to do it.

State's Righters' Strategy

Talmadge made it clear that the States Rights Democratic forces will not use the governors conference as a launching site for a southern revolt in next year's presidential election.

Some States' Rights leaders say privately that if Mr. Truman is the Democratic nominee and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio the Republican choice then they will revolt, organize a southern convention, and name a presidential candidate of their own.

The aim of this strategy would be to deny Mr. Truman as many electoral votes as possible in an effort to throw the election into the House of Representatives. This would be done if none of the major candidates received a majority of the electoral votes.

Actress Jane Russell, Irish Baby Reunited

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12 (AP) — Actress Jane Russell was reunited today with the blue-eyed Irish baby that was handed to her by its sobbing mother at the London airport Nov. 6.

Miss Russell said her mother arrived by plane from the East last night with the 15-month-old boy and the infant is now at her home.

The actress said she has not yet decided what is to be done about the baby, Thomas Kavanagh, which she brought with her to New York because the mother, Mrs. Florrie Kavanagh, pleaded with her to give the child a chance in America.

'Discrimination' In Medal Awards Denied By Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP)—A spokesman said today President Truman considers the Congressional Medal of Honor as "sacred" and would not tolerate "any one tampering" with the procedures set up for its award.

The spokesman added that Mr. Truman never even heard of the Colorado father who wrote him asking if there was "political discrimination" in failure of his dead son to receive the medal posthumously.

Retired Army Capt. Eugene R. Guild, Glenwood Springs, Colo., Sunday made public a letter he wrote Mr. Truman Nov. 1 saying:

"I think there was some funny business somewhere and that the matter should be cleared up by being brought to public notice."

Hero's Father Criticized Truman

He said his son, Lt. John Guild and another Marine, Lt. Henry Commiskey, were side-by-side when wounded in the Korean fighting. Commiskey survived and was awarded the Medal of Honor. Guild died. A Navy Cross was awarded him posthumously.

Capt. Guild wrote that he had "severely criticized the President for his battlefield appeasement which shackled the hands of American fighting men" and blamed Mr. Truman's policy for the death of his son and thousands of others.

Questioned about the letter today Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said it stemmed from understandable "distress" of a grief-stricken father.

Truman Holds Medal "Sacred"

Short told correspondents:

"I just want to say this. The President holds the Medal of Honor to be so sacred that he would not tolerate any one tampering with the procedures that are set up for giving this medal. This medal is awarded for just one thing — extraordinary heroism.

"You've heard the President say many times that he would rather have the medal than be President. He meant what he said."

As for Guild, Short said that "neither the President nor members of his staff ever heard of him until this story broke."

Baltimore Demos Honor Republican

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP) — There's nothing narrow-minded about the Baltimore Young Democrats.

Tonight they're honoring a Republican, Mayor Herman L. Mills of Hagerstown.

The mayor is being given a brass donkey, symbol of the Democratic Party.

Hyman A. Pressman, president of the Young Democrats, invited Mayor Mills to receive the award in a letter stating:

"When we learned that Hagerstown enjoyed a property tax of 50 cents per $100 and that you were working hard to prevent an increase, we became anxious to feast our eyes upon your countenance.

"As a mayor who practices efficiency and ecomony, you are a rare specimen."

Leftist Students Heckle Hirohito

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Three thousand leftist Japanese students heckled Emperor Hirohito and sang the Communist anthem to him today in a disorderly demonstration that was unprecedented in Japan's modern history.

Officials and members of the older generation generally were shocked at the disrespect shown the ruler who still is considered divine by many of his subjects.

The incident, of possibly historic significance, occurred at Kyoto, ancient seat of Japanese culture and government, while Hirohito was on a state tour.

The emperor was being greeted by the Kyoto University president, Sunjiro Hattori, when the students surrounded the imperial limousine.

Two hundred police shoved the milling students back, and the emperor retired into a campus building where he stayed more than an hour.

There were no injuries reported and no threats were made against Hirohito directly by the college boys, but the newspaper Yomiuri reported they shattered windows of some of the police cars.

60 Geisha Strike For "Closed Shop"

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (AP) — Newspapers reported today that 60 geisha had gone on strike at Omiya, 20 miles north of Tokyo, demanding a "closed shop" and back pay of 2,000,000 yen (more than $5,000) which they claimed their employer owed them.

Geisha are the traditional professional entertainment girls of Japan but their status has declined in recent years.

Man Who Led War On Yellow Fever Dies

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Dr. Wilbur A. Sawyer, 72-year-old medical scientist who developed the first successful vaccine against yellow fever, died of a heart ailment today.

Known throughout the world for his public health work on tropical diseases, he developed the vaccine for yellow fever in 1930, while head of the Rockefeller Foundation Yellow Fever Laboratory in New York.

Because he had survived the disease and was immune, he could not test it on himself. So he chose his son, Wilbur H., then 10, as the first person to be innoculated.

U. S. Asks Russia To Help Austria To Independence

American Minister In Vienna Promoted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The State Department called on Soviet Russia today to fulfill its wartime pledge of freedom and independence for Austria.

In recognition of Austria "as a member of the community of nations", the United States also raised its minister in Vienna to the rank of ambassador. France and Great Britain have followed suit.

When Walter J. Donnelly becomes United States ambassador and high commissioner, Austria's representative in Washington, Dr. Ludwig Kleinwaechter, will also assume ambassadorial status.

U. S. Reassures Austria

Under Secretary of State James E. Webb assured Kleinwaechter that this government will continue its efforts to conclude an Austrian peace treaty and arrange for the withdrawal of all occupation forces.

"It is the constant hope of this government," Webb said in a note to Kleinwaechter, "that Austria's full freedom and independence may be restored as provided in the Moscow declaration.

"There are few requirements essential to a settlement, and Austria could be granted her full freedom and independence were the government of the Soviet Union willing to abide by its promises made in the Moscow declaration."

Koerner Appeals To Big 4

Austria's president, Theodor Koerner, appealed to the Big Four yesterday to end the occupation. Speaking at Eisenstadt, he said an independent Austria "can only be regarded as a gain for Europe and the entire world."

Negotiations for an Austrian settlement have been impeded for three years by Russia's claims for reparations.

Webb's note recalled the 1943 Moscow declaration by Cordell Hull, then U. S. secretary of state, and V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister. At that time the two governments pledged that Austria, although absorbed by Nazi Germany, would be restored to full sovereignty.

Reds Struggle To Complete Three North Korea Airfields

TOKYO, Tuesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—In a deadly game of bombs and shells for some of the highest potential stakes of the Korean war, the Communists are struggling around the clock to try to complete three airfields in North Korea, U. S. Air Force sources report.

If the Reds can complete the fields, north and northwest of Sinanju, they can move some of their growing air power from Manchuria down closer to the ground battlefronts.

To prevent this, radar-guided American B-29s fly over the three airfields almost every night, scattering 100-pound bombs along the runways. The Communists are forced to fill each bomb crater, and American Air Force officers believe this constant repair work has prevented much progress toward completing the airfields.

Radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns, possibly manned by Caucasian Communist specialists from Eastern Europe, recently have been placed around the North Korean fields. They have undoubtedly damaged some B-29s.

A U. S. Air Force officer in Korea, citing the fact the Reds were pushing construction of the airfields, reported a buildup of Red air power in North Korea to correspondents last night.

Streamliner Rams Another In Snowstorm

Six Missing, Eight Seriously Injured

EVANSTON, Wyo., Nov. 12 (AP) — Two eastbound streamlined passenger trains crashed in a driving snowstorm today, piling up wreckage in a giant junk heap. Union Pacific authorities said 21 were known dead and six missing.

Eight were seriously hurt and hospitalized. Scores more — some sources estimated more than a hundred—were treated for minor injuries.

The smashup came in a rolling, hilly, snow-covered area about three miles west of this little Wyoming community some 80 miles northeast of Salt Lake City.

The Union Pacific's City of Los Angeles halted for a block signal. It was bashed in from the rear by the City of San Francisco.

The three-unit Diesel power plant of the second train crushed five cars of the halted train. Cars of the second train left the tracks in a zig-zag fashion, but remained upright.

The City of San Francisco's power units were intermingled with the five rear cars of the City of Los Angeles. Outline of the five cars was barely distinguishable. Wreckage looked something like a huge tomato can which had been squashed almost flat.

Snow Averages Foot Deep

Snow on the ground at the wreck scene averaged a foot deep, but was drifted deeper in places.

Snow eased up during the afternoon hours but began again at nightfall. Workmen rigged floodlights. The temperature was below freezing.

A. F. Denham, Detroit, and his wife were passengers aboard the City of San Francisco, riding in a compartment. Denham escaped injury; his wife had a bruised leg.

"I rushed from the car up to the wreckage," Denham said. "There was not a lot of screaming. It was rather quiet for such a terrible wreck."

Charles Wirbin, fire chief in Utah's Davis County, brought an ambulance to the scene. He said he pulled three persons from the wreckage, all badly mangled.

"Parts of legs and arms were lying around," he said. "They had to jack up a freight car to get the body of one man."

Freight Cars Pushed Off Track

Standing on a passing track as the streamliners crashed was a freight train. Several of its cars were pushed off the track by the jacknifing cars of the City of San Francisco. Some of the freight cars tipped over.

Sgt. Jack Gridley, chief of staff of the Utah Highway Patrol who came here to aid Wyoming authorities, called it "the worst wreck I've seen in 15 years of law enforcement work."

Bodies were brought to an improvised morgue at the Evanston City Hall. Most seriously injured were brought to the Uinta County Memorial Hospital here. Other injured went to the American Legion hall.

By 6 p. m., (Mountain Standard Time), six and a half hours after the wreck, 21 bodies had been taken from the wreckage.

Southern Pacific Railroad officials in San Francisco said they were informed by the Union Pacific that all the passengers killed were aboard the streamliner City of Los Angeles. They added that no passengers on the City of San Francisco, which smashed into the rear of the other train, were among the dead.

Iran Given Loan By World Fund

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The International Monetary Fund has decided to grant hard-pressed Iran an $8,750,000 credit to offset the financial crisis caused by loss of oil revenues, it was learned tonight.

Informed fund officials who disclosed this said that the money is urgently needed by Iran to help it buy food and raw materials.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's financial experts negotiated the loan during the Iranian leader's current round of talks here with State Department officials on the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis.

The $8,750,000 to be granted Iran represents the maximum that the Iranian government can withdraw from the fund in any year. The Iranians have a quota of $35,000,000 in the fund but like all members can withdraw only 25 per cent of it yearly.

The fund's action undoubtedly will give Iran a big financial assist at a critical time in the Iranian fight with the British over nationalization of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Change In Franco Policy Due

In return, Churchill may undertake to march in closer step with the United States in world affairs.

A sign of that movement was given today. It concerned Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime in Spain which Britatin has deemed fascist.

Troops Protect Filipino Voters

MANILA, Tuesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—Fighting between the Philippines army and Communist Huks flared north of Manila Monday as die-hard Reds made fresh attempts to disrupt today's Philippine elections.

There are some 4,000,000 registered voters throughout the island. Most are expected to go to the polls under the protection of more than 66,000 Philippines army regulars and reservists. Thousands of volunteer non-partisan poll watchers also were on hand.

National Defense Secretary Ramon Magsaysay pledged the aid of the army to prevent intimidation of voters by armed gangs, a common practice in the past.

The critical off-year election will decide the seats of nine senators-at-large, 46 provincial governors and all city mayors and councilmen.

The campaign since mid-September has been splattered by violence both by the Communist-led Huks and gun-toting followers by rival candidates. The death tool alone stands at 96 persons, while others including poll watchers and election officials have been adbucted and injured.

Judy Garland Recovering; Show Closed Until Friday

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Judy Garland was reported recovering today after a backstage collapse at the Palace Theater. But her show closed until Friday.

The Palace made no attempt to go on without the star. It closed its doors for the eight performances between now and Friday night, although all were sold out.

The theater seats 1,650 persons. Judy's smash performances have been playing to standing-room-only audiences.

A medical report said Miss Garland "rested comfortably" all day and may be up and around later tonight. But the Palace announcement said she plans a few days' rest before going back of the footlights again.

The 29-year-old Judy—the comeback darling of Broadway—faltered on the famous old Palace stage during last night's show. She made it backstage before she collapsed.

Her physician, Dr. Udall J. Salmon, blamed "nervous exhaustion." He said her heart was sound because he had examined it earlier in the day when she didn't seem up to par.

Dr. Salmon, trying to slow down her hectic comeback schedule, said he tried to talk her out of going on last night. But Judy, a trouper all her life, turned him down with the classic stage remark that "the show must go on."

Car Rips Through Another In Train Wreck

Death marked the trail of this car as it ripped through another in the wreck yesterday of two Union Pacific passenger trains during a snowstorm in Wyoming. Passengers had no warning as one train smashed into the rear of a standing streamliner. At least 21 were killed. Six others were listed as missing. Scores were injured, eight of them seriously.

Rayburn Fires Heavy Broadside At "Dixiecrats"

Southern Governors Asked To Back Party

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 12 (AP) —House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas pleaded with southern governors tonight to remain loyal to the Democratic nominee in next year's presidential election — or see the South's position crumble in Congress.

The Texan fired a hard-hitting broadside against States Righters who have been talking of revolt if Mr. Truman is the party's presidential nominee.

"I'm going to support the Democratic nominee whoever he is," Rayburn declared.

Revolt Would Elect Republican

He said a southern revolt would only elect a Republican president and could not elect an independent candidate. Then he added: "And every southern man who holds a responsible place in Congress will lose his position."

Rayburn first outlined the theme of his address at a news conference shortly before he carried his plea to the southern governors conference where there has been talk of a Dixie revolt against Mr. Truman. Rayburn was to speak at the annual state dinner.

Earlier, Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia said the southern anti-Truman leaders could organize a "beat Truman campaign" within 48 hours—but this was not the time to do it.

State's Righters' Strategy

Talmadge made it clear that the States Rights Democratic forces will not use the governors conference as a launching site for a southern revolt in next year's presidential election.

Some States' Rights leaders say privately that if Mr. Truman is the Democratic nominee and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio the Republican choice then they will revolt, organize a southern convention, and name a presidential candidate of their own.

The aim of this strategy would be to deny Mr. Truman as many electoral votes as possible in an effort to throw the election into the House of Representatives. This would be done if none of the major candidates received a majority of the electoral votes.

Actress Jane Russell, Irish Baby Reunited

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12 (AP) — Actress Jane Russell was reunited today with the blue-eyed Irish baby that was handed to her by its sobbing mother at the London airport Nov. 6.

Miss Russell said her mother arrived by plane from the East last night with the 15-month-old boy and the infant is now at her home.

The actress said she has not yet decided what is to be done about the baby, Thomas Kavanagh, which she brought with her to New York because the mother, Mrs. Florrie Kavanagh, pleaded with her to give the child a chance in America.

'Discrimination' In Medal Awards Denied By Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP)—A spokesman said today President Truman considers the Congressional Medal of Honor as "sacred" and would not tolerate "any one tampering" with the procedures set up for its award.

The spokesman added that Mr. Truman never even heard of the Colorado father who wrote him asking if there was "political discrimination" in failure of his dead son to receive the medal posthumously.

Retired Army Capt. Eugene R. Guild, Glenwood Springs, Colo., Sunday made public a letter he wrote Mr. Truman Nov. 1 saying:

"I think there was some funny business somewhere and that the matter should be cleared up by being brought to public notice."

Hero's Father Criticized Truman

He said his son, Lt. John Guild and another Marine, Lt. Henry Commiskey, were side-by-side when wounded in the Korean fighting. Commiskey survived and was awarded the Medal of Honor. Guild died. A Navy Cross was awarded him posthumously.

Capt. Guild wrote that he had "severely criticized the President for his battlefield appeasement which shackled the hands of American fighting men" and blamed Mr. Truman's policy for the death of his son and thousands of others.

Questioned about the letter today Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said it stemmed from understandable "distress" of a grief-stricken father.

Truman Holds Medal "Sacred"

Short told correspondents:

"I just want to say this. The President holds the Medal of Honor to be so sacred that he would not tolerate any one tampering with the procedures that are set up for giving this medal. This medal is awarded for just one thing — extraordinary heroism.

"You've heard the President say many times that he would rather have the medal than be President. He meant what he said."

As for Guild, Short said that "neither the President nor members of his staff ever heard of him until this story broke."

Baltimore Demos Honor Republican

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP) — There's nothing narrow-minded about the Baltimore Young Democrats.

Tonight they're honoring a Republican, Mayor Herman L. Mills of Hagerstown.

The mayor is being given a brass donkey, symbol of the Democratic Party.

Hyman A. Pressman, president of the Young Democrats, invited Mayor Mills to receive the award in a letter stating:

"When we learned that Hagerstown enjoyed a property tax of 50 cents per $100 and that you were working hard to prevent an increase, we became anxious to feast our eyes upon your countenance.

Leftist Students Heckle Hirohito

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Three thousand leftist Japanese students heckled Emperor Hirohito and sang the Communist anthem to him today in a disorderly demonstration that was unprecedented in Japan's modern history.

Officials and members of the older generation generally were shocked at the disrespect shown the ruler who still is considered divine by many of his subjects.

The incident, of possibly historic significance, occurred at Kyoto, ancient seat of Japanese culture and government, while Hirohito was on a state tour.

The emperor was being greeted by the Kyoto University president, Sunjiro Hattori, when the students surrounded the imperial limousine.

Two hundred police shoved the milling students back, and the emperor retired into a campus building where he stayed more than an hour.

There were no injuries reported and no threats were made against Hirohito directly by the college boys, but the newspaper Yomiuri reported they shattered windows of some of the police cars.

60 Geisha Strike For "Closed Shop"

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (AP) — Newspapers reported today that 60 geisha had gone on strike at Omiya, 20 miles north of Tokyo, demanding a "closed shop" and back pay of 2,000,000 yen (more than $5,000) which they claimed their employer owed them.

Geisha are the traditional professional entertainment girls of Japan but their status has declined in recent years.

Man Who Led War On Yellow Fever Dies

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—Dr. Wilbur A. Sawyer, 72-year-old medical scientist who developed the first successful vaccine against yellow fever, died of a heart ailment today.

Known throughout the world for his public health work on tropical diseases, he developed the vaccine for yellow fever in 1930, while head of the Rockefeller Foundation Yellow Fever Laboratory in New York.

Because he had survived the disease and was immune, he could not test it on himself. So he chose his son, Wilbur H., then 10, as the first person to be innoculated.

U. S. Asks Russia To Help Austria To Independence

American Minister In Vienna Promoted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The State Department called on Soviet Russia today to fulfill its wartime pledge of freedom and independence for Austria.

In recognition of Austria "as a member of the community of nations", the United States also raised its minister in Vienna to the rank of ambassador. France and Great Britain have followed suit.

When Walter J. Donnelly becomes United States ambassador and high commissioner, Austria's representative in Washington, Dr. Ludwig Kleinwaechter, will also assume ambassadorial status.

U. S. Reassures Austria

Under Secretary of State James E. Webb assured Kleinwaechter that this government will continue its efforts to conclude an Austrian peace treaty and arrange for the withdrawal of all occupation forces.

"It is the constant hope of this government," Webb said in a note to Kleinwaechter, "that Austria's full freedom and independence may be restored as provided in the Moscow declaration.

"There are few requirements essential to a settlement, and Austria could be granted her full freedom and independence were the government of the Soviet Union willing to abide by its promises made in the Moscow declaration."

Koerner Appeals To Big 4

Austria's president, Theodor Koerner, appealed to the Big Four yesterday to end the occupation. Speaking at Eisenstadt, he said an independent Austria "can only be regarded as a gain for Europe and the entire world."

Negotiations for an Austrian settlement have been impeded for three years by Russia's claims for reparations.

Webb's note recalled the 1943 Moscow declaration by Cordell Hull, then U. S. secretary of state, and V. M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister. At that time the two governments pledged that Austria, although absorbed by Nazi Germany, would be restored to full sovereignty.

Streamliner Rams Another In Snowstorm

Six Missing, Eight Seriously Injured

EVANSTON, Wyo., Nov. 12 (AP) — Two eastbound streamlined passenger trains crashed in a driving snowstorm today, piling up wreckage in a giant junk heap. Union Pacific authorities said 21 were known dead and six missing.

Eight were seriously hurt and hospitalized. Scores more — some sources estimated more than a hundred—were treated for minor injuries.

The smashup came in a rolling, hilly, snow-covered area about three miles west of this little Wyoming community some 80 miles northeast of Salt Lake City.

The Union Pacific's City of Los Angeles halted for a block signal. It was bashed in from the rear by the City of San Francisco.

The three-unit Diesel power plant of the second train crushed five cars of the halted train. Cars of the second train left the tracks in a zig-zag fashion, but remained upright.

The City of San Francisco's power units were intermingled with the five rear cars of the City of Los Angeles. Outline of the five cars was barely distinguishable. Wreckage looked something like a huge tomato can which had been squashed almost flat.

Snow Averages Foot Deep

Snow on the ground at the wreck scene averaged a foot deep, but was drifted deeper in places.

Snow eased up during the afternoon hours but began again at nightfall. Workmen rigged floodlights. The temperature was below freezing.

A. F. Denham, Detroit, and his wife were passengers aboard the City of San Franeisco, riding in a compartment. Denham escaped injury; his wife had a bruised leg.

"I rushed from the car up to the wreckage," Denham said. "There was not a lot of screaming. It was rather quiet for such a terrible wreck."

Charles Wirbin, fire chief in Utah's Davis County, brought an ambulance to the scene. He said he pulled three persons from the wreckage, all badly mangled.

"Parts of legs and arms were lying around," he said. "They had to jack up a freight car to get the body of one man."

Freight Cars Pushed Off Track

Standing on a passing track as the streamliners crashed was a freight train. Several of its cars were pushed off the track by the jacknifing cars of the City of San Francisco. Some of the freight cars tipped over.

Sgt. Jack Gridley, chief of staff of the Utah Highway Patrol who came here to aid Wyoming authorities, called it "the worst wreck I've seen in 15 years of law enforcement work."

Bodies were brought to an improvised morgue at the Evanston City Hall. Most seriously injured were brought to the Uinta County Memorial Hospital here. Other injured went to the American Legion hall.

By 6 p. m., (Mountain Standard Time), six and a half hours after the wreck, 21 bodies had been taken from the wreckage.

Southern Pacific Railroad officials in San Francisco said they were informed by the Union Pacific that all the passengers killed were aboard the streamliner City of Los Angeles. They added that no passengers on the City of San Francisco, which smashed into the rear of the other train, were among the dead.

Iran Given Loan By World Fund

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The International Monetary Fund has decided to grant hard-pressed Iran an $8,750,000 credit to offset the financial crisis caused by loss of oil revenues, it was learned tonight.

Informed fund officials who disclosed this said that the money is urgently needed by Iran to help it buy food and raw materials.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's financial experts negotiated the loan during the Iranian leader's current round of talks here with State Department officials on the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis.

The $8,750,000 to be granted Iran represents the maximum that the Iranian government can withdraw from the fund in any year. The Iranians have a quota of $35,000,000 in the fund but like all members can withdraw only 25 per cent of it yearly.

The fund's action undoubtedly will give Iran a big financial assist at a critical time in the Iranian fight with the British over nationalization of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Reds Struggle To Complete Three North Korea Airfields

TOKYO, Tuesday, Nov. 13 (AP)—In a deadly game of bombs and shells for some of the highest potential stakes of the Korean war, the Communists are struggling around the clock to try to complete three airfields in North Korea, U. S. Air Force sources report.

If the Reds can complete the fields, north and northwest of Sinanju, they can move some of their growing air power from Manchuria down closer to the ground battlefronts.

To prevent this, radar-guided American B-29s fly over the three airfields almost every night, scattering 100-pound bombs along the runways. The Communists are forced to fill each bomb crater, and American Air Force officers believe this constant repair work has prevented much progress toward completing the airfields.

Radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns, possibly manned by Caucasian Communist specialists from Eastern Europe, recently have been placed around the North Korean fields. They have undoubtedly damaged some B-29s.

A U. S. Air Force officer in Korea, citing the fact the Reds were pushing construction of the airfields, reported a buildup of Red air power in North Korea to correspondents last night.

Teachers Slip Down Economic Scale, NEA Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) —The National Education Association said today the nation's teachers have been slipping down the economic scale.

Meanwhile, it reported in its annual survey of schools, about 400,000 pupils in the public elementary and secondary schools have less than the full time school opportunities because of current shortages of teachers and building facilities. It said some 3,997,000 children in the 5 to 17 age bracket are not enrolled in any school, and 35 per cent of them are 14 to 17 years of age.

Frank W. Hubbard, association research director, commented that "between 1940 and 1950 the average salary of instructional staffs (classroom teachers, principals and supervisors) increased 108 per cent while the average national income of all gainfully employed persons advanced 132 per cent."

"In the 1940s the average teacher was earning 11 per cent more than the average gainfully employed person," Hubbard said.

"Thus teachers have been slipping down the economic scale."

The report showed that the average salary for classroom teachers throughout the nation this year will be $3,167. It said three per cent of the nation's teachers will be paid less than $1,500 this year and an additional 21 per cent will be paid from $1,500 to $2,399.

The report estimated that the 48 states and the District of Columbia will spend $5,131,206,842 this year to support the public schools, compared with $4,782,356,532 last year.

Princess And Duke Homeward-Bound

PORTUGAL COVE, Nfld., Nov. 12 (AP) — Britain's royal tourists were homeward-bound tonight aboard the Empress of Scotland after a wild, snarling nor'wester lashed into this rugged fishing village and threatened to wreck embarkation plans.

The big white liner was forced to make way from its anchorage and find a spot in the lee of Bell Island so the transfer of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh could be made in safety.

The tender Maneco which took the party to the liner's side at noon got a terrific battering from the sea.

After the tender slipped away from the liner the couple who had travelled 15,000 miles in five weeks, including a side trip to Washington, stood high up on the bridge, alone and waving.

HE FLEW IN FOR THEM—Navy Lt. John E. Pritchett holds his son, John, 3, and daughter, Mary Lou, 1, when his wife and children visited him at the Navy base hospital at Columbus, O., yesterday. Lt. Pritchett was nearly overcome with carbon monoxide while flying a Navy torpedo plane on a training flight. Two wingmen led Pritchett back to the field where he made a near perfect landing and collapsed.

Navy Pilot, Fighting Fumes, Flies 100 Miles To Landing

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12 (AP) — Navy Lt. J. E. Pritchett, Columbus, almost overcome by carbon monoxide, flew 100 miles and made a perfect landing yesterday.

Navy officers at Port Columbus said it was one of the oddest air rescues on record.

Fighting to keep awake, Pritchett sluggishly followed hand signals of two flying buddies in letting down from 4,000 feet to the runways at Port Columbus. As his plane rolled by, airport attendants saw Pritchett give up and slump into unconsciousness.

Doctors gave the pilot oxygen before they pulled him from the cockpit of his husky torpedo plane.

Airport officials said carbon monoxide fumes from the engine apparently had leaked into the cockpit, adding they were investigating to see what had caused the leak.

Pritchett became ill on a training flight from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va., Cincinnati and back to Columbus. He was over Charleston. Lts. W. C. Shroyer, Strasburg, O., and R. R. Merritt, Indianapolis, Ind., pulled out of formation to aid Pritchett.

They decided to bring him back to Columbus where he would be more familiar with landing conditions. They radioed the Columbus pilot to rock his wings if he was awake enough to hear them. The wings didn't rock. Later Pritchett said he "was working so hard to keep awake I didn't answer."

Because the nearly unconscious pilot flew erratically, the 100 miles from Charleston to Columbus took 90 minutes to fly. Port Columbus went on emergency and rescue crews stood by.

Grim Food Report Issued By U. N. Unit

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Food and Agricultural Organization of the U. N. reported grimly today that three-fifths of the world has insufficient nutrition and food supplies per person have dropped four per cent below prewar level.

This summary of the world food situation was placed before the 18-nation guiding council of the FAO at its opening session. The council put the report onto the agenda of the sixth world conference of the 66 members here for Nov. 19 to Dec. 7.

Maneuver Lantflex Reaches Climax Today

ONSLOW BEACH, N. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—An amazing armada of more than 200 ships and 100,000 men was sailing toward this small strand on the lower North Carolina coast tonight.

Sometime tomorrow, huge attack forces will establish a beachhead under battle conditions made as realistic as possible without using live ammunition.

The operation is phase four and the climax of Maneuver Lantflex, 52, and is the largest amphibious exercise since the Korean war and perhaps in America's history.

Duff Promises Active Pa. Campaign For Ike

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa) said today an active campaign will be conducted in Pennsylvania for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination.

"There is going to be plenty of action in Pennsylvania at the proper time" in behalf of the general, Duff told reporters, but added:

"It is too early just yet to start any Pennsylvania boom."

Duff and his Republican colleague from Pennsylvania, Sen. Edward Martin, were speakers before the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

Martin told reporters he doubted Eisenhower would run for president because "I don't think he will give up his job in Europe."

Duff, an ardent Eisenhower backer, when informed of Martin's statement, retorted quickly:

"If he thinks that he is very much mistaken."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS) — Defense Secretary Lovett took off from Washington today for an inspection of European defense bases and to attend North Atlantic Treaty Council meetings in Rome.

Five Newsmen Plead Innocent

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 12 (AP) —Five Lake Charles American Press newsmen denied in district court today charges of defaming 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers in a newspaper crusade against wide open gambling.

The five defendants pleaded innocent at their arraignment.

After pleading, Defense Attorney Clement Moss filed two motions asking for more information about two of the indictments. Judge J. Bernard Cocke deferred setting a trial date until after the court disposes of the motions.

Judge Cocke, of New Orleans, sitting for Judge Mark Pickrel, who is ill, set next Monday, Nov. 19, for hearings on the motions.

All of the indictments were based on crusade articles the American Press published against open gambling in the parish.

Radio Not Fading Away

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP) — About 150 radio and television station executives heard today that "far from fading away, radio is getting bigger and bigger every day."

That statement was made at the District Three session of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters by NARTB President Harold E. Fellows, Washington, D. C.

Peron, Jubilant Over Reelection, Still On Leave

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12 (AP) — President Juan D. Peron, jubilant over his reelection to a six-year term, was still on leave of absence from his office today and there was no official indication when he would return.

With 75 per cent of the vote counted from yesterday's national election, the presidential race showed: Peron 3,341,333; Ricardo Balbin, Radical, 1,756,960. None of the other six parties' presidential candidates was close.

Some associates said Peron may be delaying his return in order to be with his wife, Eva, who is recuperating from an operation.

When he vacated his office Nov. 1 with the avowed intention of freeing the voters from any pressure, Peron said he would be back the day after election.

With the presidential race settled, Argentine attention turned mainly to the outcome of the races for Congress. But the counting in these races does not begin until Thursday and may take 10 days.

Peron's reelection by a two to one edge followed the trend of the 1948 congressional elections, when the Peronista Party captured 63.7 per cent of the total popular vote. In 1946, Peron got only 55 per cent.

Peron's big party machine, including the powerful General Confederation of Labor (CGT) gave him victory in all the provinces he carried in 1946 and also four other provinces where a democratic union coalition won five years ago.

One development was the reduction in Communist Party influence. The party is under constant government pressure; its press has been closed and Red movements and meetings have been under surveillance of political police.

Burma's High Court Clears Dr. Seagrave

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 12 (AP)—The American "Burma Surgeon," Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave, was cleared today of the last treason charge brought against him for giving medical aid to rebel hill tribesmen in 1949.

Burma's Supreme Court ruled he erred but had no criminal intent in his donation of instruments and medicines to Rebel Leader Naw Seng, a government army deserter and Kachin tribesman who fought the federal forces in the several-sided Burma civil war.

Seagrave, now 54, and author of the best-selling book "Burma Surgeon," had served seven months of a six-year hard labor sentence after being convicted of two of three treason charges.

One conviction was reversed by the high court last February; the other was upheld then but the one-year sentence that went with it was considered served in the 51 days he spent in th Rangoon central prison when he was tried and convicted.

Sen. McCarthy Says Tydings Is "Faker"

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today former Sen. Millard E. Tydings is a "Clever little faker" for offering a reward for indictments of the Communists McCarthy alleges have worked in the State Department.

In a "Dear Joe" letter to McCarthy yesterday, the Maryland Democrat said he was doubling his reward offer to $10,000 for anyone obtaining indictments against McCarthy's "205 or 57" Communists.

"Dear Millard: You clever little faker," McCarthy's reply letter began.

McCarthy has charged that Tydings mishandled a 1950 Senate investigation into his charges of Communists-in-government, producing a "whitewash." Tydings was defeated last year in his bid for reelection.

Spy Scare Over At Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—The spy scare is over.

The owner of all those scientific photographs and papers turned out to be just a shy gardener with a love of the camera and a fear of the atom bomb.

But the resultant flurry broke up four years of untroubled life in a crude shack under the San Francisco Bay bridge. He isn't likely to get back there.

Sunday Oakland police moved in on the cardpaper and wrapping paper dwelling beneath a ramp on the east bay approach. They arrested Otto Frederick Maynard, 42. They picked up a big collection of photographs of such things as the Berkeley cyclotron. Much material on the atom bomb was found.

Today the FBI boys had a looksee. They promptly ruled Maynard was no threat to national security—something he had insisted all along.

Maynard already had made clear that photography was his hobby and the atom bomb his chief concern. He just wanted to be ready if and when.

cially disclosed, passed word to Franco's ambassador last week that Churchill's government hopes future Anglo-Spanish relations will be "correct and friendly."

The preceding Labor government took the view earlier this year, when the United States took the initiative in seeking air and naval bases in Spain, that any sort of relationship between Madrid and Washington would weaken the political cause of the Atlantic allies. Government sources said Eden may soon withdraw that objection.

Churchill said today as plainly as modern diplomacy allows that he also is thinking of meeting Stalin soon.

Meanwhile, it reported in its annual survey of schools, about 400,000 pupils in the public elementary and secondary schools have less than the full time school opportunities because of current shortages of teachers and building facilities. It said some 3,997,000 children in the 5 to 17 age bracket are not enrolled in any school, and 35 per cent of them are 14 to 17 years of age.

Frank W. Hubbard, association research director, commented that "between 1940 and 1950 the average salary of instructional staffs (classroom teachers, principals and supervisors) increased 108 per cent while the average national income of all gainfully employed persons advanced 132 per cent."

"In the 1940s the average teacher was earning 11 per cent more than the average gainfully employed person," Hubbard said.

"Thus teachers have been slipping down the economic scale."

The report showed that the average salary for classroom teachers throughout the nation this year will be $3,167. It said three per cent of the nation's teachers will be paid less than $1,500 this year and an additional 21 per cent will be paid from $1,500 to $2,399.

The report estimated that the 48 states and the District of Columbia will spend $5,131,206,842 this year to support the public schools, compared with $4,782,356,532 last year.

Princess And Duke Homeward-Bound

PORTUGAL COVE, Nfld., Nov. 12 (AP) — Britain's royal tourists were homeward-bound tonight aboard the Empress of Scotland after a wild, snarling nor'wester lashed into this rugged fishing village and threatened to wreck embarkation plans.

The big white liner was forced to make way from its anchorage and find a spot in the lee of Bell Island so the transfer of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh could be made in safety.

The tender Maneco which took the party to the liner's side at noon got a terrific battering from the sea.

After the tender slipped away from the liner the couple who had travelled 15,000 miles in five weeks, including a side trip to Washington, stood high up on the bridge, alone and waving.

HE FLEW IN FOR THEM—Navy Lt. John E. Pritchett holds his son, John, 3, and daughter, Mary Lou, 1, when his wife and children visited him at the Navy base hospital at Columbus, O., yesterday. Lt. Pritchett was nearly overcome with carbon monoxide while flying a Navy torpedo plane on a training flight. Two wingmen led Pritchett back to the field where he made a near perfect landing and collapsed.

Navy Pilot, Fighting Fumes, Flies 100 Miles To Landing

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12 (AP) — Navy Lt. J. E. Pritchett, Columbus, almost overcome by carbon monoxide, flew 100 miles and made a perfect landing yesterday.

Navy officers at Port Columbus said it was one of the oddest air rescues on record.

Fighting to keep awake, Pritchett sluggishly followed hand signals of two flying buddies in letting down from 4,000 feet to the runways at Port Columbus. As his plane rolled by, airport attendants saw Pritchett give up and slump into unconsciousness.

Doctors gave the pilot oxygen before they pulled him from the cockpit of his husky torpedo plane.

Airport officials said carbon monoxide fumes from the engine apparently had leaked into the cockpit, adding they were investigating to see what had caused the leak.

Pritchett became ill on a training flight from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va., Cincinnati and back to Columbus. He was over Charleston. Lts. W. C. Shroyer, Strasburg, O., and R. R. Merritt, Indianapolis, Ind., pulled out of formation to aid Pritchett.

They decided to bring him back to Columbus where he would be more familiar with landing conditions. They radioed the Columbus pilot to rock his wings if he was awake enough to hear them. The wings didn't rock. Later Pritchett said he "was working so hard to keep awake I didn't answer."

Because the nearly unconscious pilot flew erratically, the 100 miles from Charleston to Columbus took 90 minutes to fly. Port Columbus went on emergency and rescue crews stood by.

Grim Food Report Issued By U. N. Unit

ROME, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Food and Agricultural Organization of the U. N. reported grimly today that three-fifths of the world has insufficient nutrition and food supplies per person have dropped four per cent below prewar level.

This summary of the world food situation was placed before the 18-nation guiding council of the FAO at its opening session. The council put the report onto the agenda of the sixth world conference of the 66 members here for Nov. 19 to Dec. 7.

Maneuver Lantflex Reaches Climax Today

ONSLOW BEACH, N. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—An amazing armada of more than 200 ships and 100,000 men was sailing toward this small strand on the lower North Carolina coast tonight.

Sometime tomorrow, huge attack forces will establish a beachhead under battle conditions made as realistic as possible without using live ammunition.

The operation is phase four and the climax of Maneuver Lantflex, 52, and is the largest amphibious exercise since the Korean war and perhaps in America's history.

Duff Promises Active Pa. Campaign For Ike

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa) said today an active campaign will be conducted in Pennsylvania for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination.

"There is going to be plenty of action in Pennsylvania at the proper time" in behalf of the general, Duff told reporters, but added:

"It is too early just yet to start any Pennsylvania boom."

Duff and his Republican colleague from Pennsylvania, Sen. Edward Martin, were speakers before the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

Martin told reporters he doubted Eisenhower would run for president because "I don't think he will give up his job in Europe."

Duff, an ardent Eisenhower backer, when informed of Martin's statement, retorted quickly:

"If he thinks that he is very much mistaken."

Lovett Flies To Europe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (INS) — Defense Secretary Lovett took off from Washington today for an inspection of European defense bases and to attend North Atlantic Treaty Council meetings in Rome.

Five Newsmen Plead Innocent

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 12 (AP) —Five Lake Charles American Press newsmen denied in district court today charges of defaming 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers in a newspaper crusade against wide open gambling.

The five defendants pleaded innocent at their arraignment.

After pleading, Defense Attorney Clement Moss filed two motions asking for more information about two of the indictments. Judge J. Bernard Cocke deferred setting a trial date until after the court disposes of the motions.

Judge Cocke, of New Orleans, sitting for Judge Mark Pickrel, who is ill, set next Monday, Nov. 19, for hearings on the motions.

All of the indictments were based on crusade articles the American Press published against open gambling in the parish.

Radio Not Fading Away

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP) — About 150 radio and television station executives heard today that "far from fading away, radio is getting bigger and bigger every day."

That statement was made at the District Three session of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters by NARTB President Harold E. Fellows, Washington, D. C.

Peron, Jubilant Over Reelection, Still On Leave

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12 (AP) — President Juan D. Peron, jubilant over his reelection to a six-year term, was still on leave of absence from his office today and there was no official indication when he would return.

With 75 per cent of the vote counted from yesterday's national election, the presidential race showed: Peron 3,341,333; Ricardo Balbin, Radical, 1,756,960. None of the other six parties' presidential candidates was close.

Some associates said Peron may be delaying his return in order to be with his wife, Eva, who is recuperating from an operation.

When he vacated his office Nov. 1 with the avowed intention of freeing the voters from any pressure, Peron said he would be back the day after election.

With the presidential race settled, Argentine attention turned mainly to the outcome of the races for Congress. But the counting in these races does not begin until Thursday and may take 10 days.

Peron's reelection by a two to one edge followed the trend of the 1948 congressional elections, when the Peronista Party captured 63.7 per cent of the total popular vote. In 1946, Peron got only 55 per cent.

Peron's big party machine, including the powerful General Confederation of Labor (CGT) gave him victory in all the provinces he carried in 1946 and also four other provinces where a democratic union coalition won five years ago.

One development was the reduction in Communist Party influence. The party is under constant government pressure; its press has been closed and Red movements and meetings have been under surveillance of political police.

Burma's High Court Clears Dr. Seagrave

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 12 (AP)—The American "Burma Surgeon," Dr. Gordon S. Seagrave, was cleared today of the last treason charge brought against him for giving medical aid to rebel hill tribesmen in 1949.

Burma's Supreme Court ruled he erred but had no criminal intent in his donation of instruments and medicines to Rebel Leader Naw Seng, a government army deserter and Kachin tribesman who fought the federal forces in the several-sided Burma civil war.

Seagrave, now 54, and author of the best-selling book "Burma Surgeon," had served seven months of a six-year hard labor sentence after being convicted of two of three treason charges.

One conviction was reversed by the high court last February; the other was upheld then but the one-year sentence that went with it was considered served in the 51 days he spent in th Rangoon central prison when he was tried and convicted.

HAPPY GREETING IN KOREA—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway (right), wearing his usual battle harness with first aid kit and grenade on shoulder straps, is in a smiling mood as he talks with Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. armistice negotiator, upon arrival at Munsan, Korea, for top level talks on progress of peace negotiations. Ridgway returned to Tokyo shortly after conference.

Sen. McCarthy Says Tydings Is "Faker"

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today former Sen. Millard E. Tydings is a "Clever little faker" for offering a reward for indictments of the Communists McCarthy alleges have worked in the State Department.

In a "Dear Joe" letter to McCarthy yesterday, the Maryland Democrat said he was doubling his reward offer to $10,000 for anyone obtaining indictments against McCarthy's "205 or 57" Communists.

"Dear Millard: You clever little faker," McCarthy's reply letter began.

McCarthy has charged that Tydings mishandled a 1950 Senate investigation into his charges of Communists-in-government, producing a "whitewash." Tydings was defeated last year in his bid for reelection.

Spy Scare Over At Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—The spy scare is over.

The owner of all those scientific photographs and papers turned out to be just a shy gardener with a love of the camera and a fear of the atom bomb.

But the resultant flurry broke up four years of untroubled life in a crude shack under the San Francisco Bay bridge. He isn't likely to get back there.

Sunday Oakland police moved in on the cardpaper and wrapping paper dwelling beneath a ramp on the east bay approach. They arrested Otto Frederick Maynard, 42. They picked up a big collection of photographs of such things as the Berkeley cyclotron. Much material on the atom bomb was found.

Today the FBI boys had a look-see. They promptly ruled Maynard was no threat to national security—something he had insisted all along.

Maynard already had made clear that photography was his hobby and the atom bomb his chief concern. He just wanted to be ready if and when.

Churchill May

cially disclosed, passed word to Franco's ambassador last week that Churchill's government hopes future Anglo-Spanish relations will be "correct and friendly."

The preceding Labor government took the view earlier this year, when the United States took the initiative in seeking air and naval bases in Spain, that any sort of relationship between Madrid and Washington would weaken the political cause of the Atlantic allies. Government sources said Eden may soon withdraw that objection.

Churchill said today as plainly as modern diplomacy allows that he also is thinking of meeting Stalin soon.

Oakland Woman Publishes Book

A Garrett county woman, the mother of eight children, has gained national recognition for published stories for boys and girls from four to seven years of age.

Mrs. Mary Bond Weber, Oakland, is author of the new book "Children of Hillcrest," illustrated with line drawings by Frances Patterson.

She solved her personal story problems in a series of tales combining the best of make-believe and bringing in, here and there, real boys and girls. The book was compiled for mothers who find themselves running out of stories to tell their children.

All the tales begin in Hillcrest, which might be the meeting place of any group of children. Answered in the book are such questions as "Why Brownie's Nose Twitched," "How Jack Frost Gets Fooled" and "Why the Bee Stings."

Mrs. Weber was born in Brockway, Pa., and took teacher's training courses at Edinboro and Mansfield, Pa., specializing in primary and kindergarten work. She married in 1913.

Memorial Dedicated To 29th Division

First memorial in the United States to the dead of the 29th Division in World Wars I and II was dedicated Sunday afternoon at Norfolk, Va.

A ceremony in which delegations from Baltimore, the birthplace of the 29th Division Association, participated, was the only Armistice Day observance in Norfolk.

The program took place in a grove of oak trees in a park on the banks of the Lafayette River donated by the city to Post No. 5, of the 29th Division Association which erected the memorial shrine.

The monument is 9 feet 2 inches wide with a center shaft of 6 feet 6 inches high.

The emblem of the division surmounted by an eagle, is carved at the top of the center shaft.

Surrounding the shaft were the guidons of the 115th and the 116th Infantry, of the 129th Artillery, the 26th Signal Corps and the national and division flags.

Beer Sales Show Gain Over Last Year

Beer sales during the first nine months of 1951 were almost 64,500,000 barrels, an increase of 1.2 per cent over the comparable period last year, the U. S. Brewers Foundation reported today on the basis of U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue tax data.

During September, the report said, total taxpaid withdrawals (beer withdrawn from breweries on which federal taxes are paid), were 2.2 per cent greater than in the same month of 1950.

Throughout the country the Middle Atlantic region showed the greatest sales gain, four per cent, for September, while New England sales showed the greatest decline, 12 per cent. The New England decline was attributed in part to production cutbacks in textiles and leather which resulted in lowered employment in the two industries during the month.

Wisconsin, New York and Missouri, in that order led in total sales.

Chain Drug Store Sales Show Gain

Drug chain store sales showed a 2.5 per cent increase nationally in September compared with the same month last year according to Chain Store Age magazine. Highest sales gaining the nation was recorded by the Mountain states, with an increase of 5.4 per cent. The Southeast showed a 4.6 per cent increase and the East Central states a 3.9 per cent gain.

The Middle Atlantic region recorded an increase of 0.1 per cent. The New England area showed a decrease of 1.4 per cent in September sales.

The survey is based on reports from 60 drug chains operating a total of 1,883 stores throughout the nation.

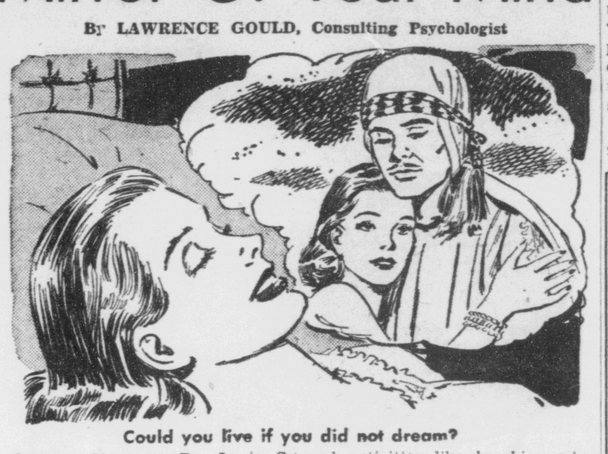
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist



Could you live if you did not dream?

Answer: No, says Dr. Louis S. London, Washington, D. C. psychiatrist, in the Journal of Clinical Psychopathology. In the average person, the forces of instinct are in constant, if often unconscious conflict with those of morality or conscience. When this conflict is too acute, sleep becomes impossible. But a sort of truce is set up when the forbidden impulses are able to slip past the moral censor and find harmless satisfaction in dreams. Without the release of tension thus produced you could not sleep and so could not live. The people who claim they "never dream" simply forget (repress) their dreams on waking.

Are delinquents always psychopathic?

Answer: Certainly not. A delinquent is a child whose conduct does not conform to society's accepted patterns. This may be because he is a psychopath—a person with "no sense of right and wrong" and frequently an imperfect awareness of reality. It may be because he is driven by neurotic urges, such as a "need" to get into trouble. But it's always possible that the delinquent is simply a normal youngster whose parents never taught him to regard activities like breaking windows, robbing pushcarts or gang fighting as wrong. The first thing to do is to find out to which of these groups any culprit belongs.

Are psychiatric views of drinking new?

Answer: No, says Dr. Joseph Hirsch, medical historian. The idea that the problem drinker is a mentally sick person was expressed in two separate documents written more than 170 years ago. The author of one was an English physician, Dr. Thomas Trotter, while the other was the work of the founder of American psychiatry, Dr. Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia. According to Dr. Hirsch, drunkenness did not become a major public problem until the introduction of distilled or "hard" liquor in the 18th century provided neurotics with what seemed to be an easy way of escape from their problems. And the problems are still the same.

Oakland Woman Publishes Book

A Garrett county woman, the mother of eight children, has gained national recognition for published stories for boys and girls from four to seven years of age.

Mrs. Mary Bond Weber, Oakland, is author of the new book "Children of Hillcrest," illustrated with line drawings by Frances Patterson.

She solved her personal story problems in a series of tales combining the best of make-believe and bringing in, here and there, real boys and girls. The book was compiled for mothers who find themselves running out of stories to tell their children.

All the tales begin in Hillcrest, which might be the meeting place of any group of children. Answered in the book are such questions as "Why Brownie's Nose Twitched," "How Jack Frost Gets Fooled" and "Why the Bee Stings."

Mrs. Weber was born in Brockway, Pa., and took teacher's training courses at Edinboro and Mansfield, Pa., specializing in primary and kindergarten work. She married in 1913.

Memorial Dedicated To 29th Division

First memorial in the United States to the dead of the 29th Division in World Wars I and II was dedicated Sunday afternoon at Norfolk, Va.

A ceremony in which delegations from Baltimore, the birthplace of the 29th Division Association, participated, was the only Armistice Day observance in Norfolk.

The program took place in a grove of oak trees in a park on the banks of the Lafayette River donated by the city to Post No. 5, of the 29th Division Association which erected the memorial shrine.

The monument is 9 feet 2 inches wide with a center shaft of 6 feet 6 inches high.

The emblem of the division surmounted by an eagle, is carved at the top of the center shaft.

Surrounding the shaft were the guidons of the 115th and the 116th Infantry, of the 129th Artillery, the 26th Signal Corps and the national and division flags.

Beer Sales Show Gain Over Last Year

Beer sales during the first nine months of 1951 were almost 64,500,000 barrels, an increase of 1.2 per cent over the comparable period last year, the U. S. Brewers Foundation reported today on the basis of U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue tax data.

During September, the report said, total taxpaid withdrawals (beer withdrawn from breweries on which federal taxes are paid), were 2.2 per cent greater than in the same month of 1950.

Throughout the country the Middle Atlantic region showed the greatest sales gain, four per cent, for September, while New England sales showed the greatest decline, 12 per cent. The New England decline was attributed in part to production cutbacks in textiles and leather which resulted in lowered employment in the two industries during the month.

Wisconsin, New York and Missouri, in that order led in total sales.

Chain Drug Store Sales Show Gain

Drug chain store sales showed a 2.5 per cent increase nationally in September compared with the same month last year according to Chain Store Age magazine. Highest sales gaining the nation was recorded by the Mountain states, with an increase of 5.4 per cent. The Southeast showed a 4.6 per cent increase and the East Central states a 3.9 per cent gain.

The Middle Atlantic region recorded an increase of 0.1 per cent. The New England area showed a decrease of 1.4 per cent in September sales.

The survey is based on reports from 60 drug chains operating a total of 1,883 stores throughout the nation.

United States national debt rose almost $3 billion during fiscal year 1951.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Could you live if you did not dream?

Answer: No, says Dr. Louis S. London, Washington, D. C. psychiatrist, in the Journal of Clinical Psychopathology. In the average person, the forces of instinct are in constant, if often unconscious conflict with those of morality or conscience. When this conflict is too acute, sleep becomes impossible. But a sort of truce is set up when the forbidden impulses are able to slip past the moral censor and find harmless satisfaction in dreams. Without the release of tension thus produced you could not sleep and so could not live. The people who claim they "never dream" simply forget (repress) their dreams on waking.

Are delinquents always psychopathic?

Answer: Certainly not. A delinquent is a child whose conduct does not conform to society's accepted patterns. This may be because he is a psychopath—a person with "no sense of right and wrong" and frequently an imperfect awareness of reality. It may be because he is driven by neurotic urges, such as a "need" to get into trouble. But it's always possible that the delinquent is simply a normal youngster whose parents never taught him to regard activities like breaking windows, robbing pushcarts or gang fighting as wrong. The first thing to do is to find out to which of these groups any culprit belongs.

Are psychiatric views of drinking new?

Answer: No, says Dr. Joseph Hirsch, medical historian. The idea that the problem drinker is a mentally sick person was expressed in two separate documents written more than 170 years ago. The author of one was an English physician, Dr. Thomas Trotter, while the other was the work of the founder of American psychiatry, Dr. Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia. According to Dr. Hirsch, drunkenness did not become a major public problem until the introduction of distilled or "hard" liquor in the 18th century provided neurotics with what seemed to be an easy way of escape from their problems. And the problems are still the same.

Women In Armed Services

The military establishment today "aggressively favors the use of women in an unbelievably wide variety of jobs, at home and abroad," according to Secretary of the Army Pace. At the beginning of World War II, on the other hand, the women soldiers were assigned, in the words of Dorothy C. Stratton, who directed the SPARS (Women's Coast Guard Reserves), "only the simplest and least responsible tasks."

In World War I the service of women in the armed forces—apart from nurses—has been described as "a tentative experiment." Not until 1942, some six months after the U. S. had entered World War II, did Congress authorize the service of women in armed forces auxiliaries. Members of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps (WAAC) were given on July 1, 1943, the right to full Army ratings, grades, privileges, and benefits as belonging to a component of the Army (WAC).

Women reserves of the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard were afforded the same disability and other allowances as male officers and enlisted men in September, 1944. But Navy women could serve outside the United States only on a voluntary basis, and then only at Hawaii and bases in the Western Hemisphere.

The Women's Army Corps and Air Force reserve had been scheduled to pass out of existence at the end of June, 1948. But the Women's Armed Services Integration Act of that year provided for their transfer to regular status, along with the women's naval and marine reserve components, over a period of years. Some WAVEs are now stationed overseas.

The strength of regular women's components originally was to be limited to two per cent of the total authorized strength of the armed services. That two per cent limitation was suspended until July 1, 1954, by the Selective Service Extension Act of 1951.

Nine women's services are now in existence. Four —the WAC, WAF (Air Force), WAVEs (Navy), and Women Marines—carry on general military activities. The Army, Air Force, and Navy have nurse corps. And the Army and Air Force have corps of women medical specialists, including dietitians, physical therapists, occupational therapists. The SPARS have not yet been reactivated.

The Army, Navy, and Air Force urgently need nurses, and will continue to need them. In other capacities also enlistment of women has fallen short of need and expectation. Including the Army Nurse Corps, only 18,000 of the Army's total strength of 1,500,000 are women. Thus, although the old limitation of two per cent of the total authorized strength of the services has been suspended, women in the Army represent only slightly more than one per cent of total strength.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg has said that drafting of women "simply isn't in the cards." But according to Col. Mary A. Hallaren, director of the WAC, "American women can well be the margin between victory and defeat if only their utilization is planned intelligently in connection with manpower. The machinery is national registration and general service."

Risk In Yugoslavia

The officially recognized slowdown strike by Yugoslav peasants offers a new and perplexing aspect to this country's current policy of military and economic aid to Tito.

By concertedly reducing production, Yugoslavia's farmers resist Tito's Communist policy of land collectivization and compulsory delivery of foodstuffs to the state. The slowdown is probably the only means—short of armed rebellion—by which an important segment of the Yugoslav people can try to throw off the yoke of authoritarianism.

Were this to occur behind the Iron Curtain, the United States would be the first to applaud. By every means possible, encouragement would be extended to such a demonstration of independence.

American arms and economic assistance are being given Tito to encourage his own revolt against the Kremlin and to protect him against Soviet retaliation. These are reasons considered sufficiently sound to justify the risk that Tito, in a doube-cross, might one day use that aid against the West.

But American aid is not being given to strengthen Tito's grip on the Yugoslav masses. Nor is it, in fact, to perpetuate a system diametrically opposed to every American principle. It is up to the United States Government to impress that fact upon Dictator Tito no matter how he insists that he will not compromise his own principles.

Our Workers Have Cars

For the first time since World War II a German ship with a German crew docked at Wilmington, Del., the other day. That's significant, though the SS Emsriff is only an "old scow" in the eyes of her engineer, because it brings home the fact that the German merchant marine is back on the seas. It's also interesting —because members of her crew found their first glimpse of this country incredible, and said so.

The Emsriff was sunk during the war and for four years she lay under water. Then, in 1949, she was raised and rebuilt. Now she is sailing the high seas, at a speed "of about 10 knots," which means that she can carry a cargo of cork from Portugal to this country in 18 days. That's better than Columbus did, as the engineer pointed out, but the passage couldn't be called fast. The parallel between the vessel and the German economy hardly needs further elaboration.

As for the German seamen, Second Mate Alfred Pfeiffenberger spoke for them. He noted that "hundreds of automobiles arrived" the moment the ship docked. He added: "From them stepped not port officials, not harbor executives, but stevedores! Why, not a man on this ship has ever owned a car—and there are 39 of us, including the captain."

Per Capita Cost, $636

Total appropriations voted by the recent session of Congress amounted to more than $91,000,000,000, and this figure does not include $7,000,000,000 for certain more or less permanent items, including $6,000,000,000 for interest on the national debt.

Broken down to a per capital basis, this works out at $636 for each of 154,000,000 Americans, or more than $2,500 for an average family of four. How the head of such a family is going to get that $2,500 is a point on which congressmen are as silent as the Sphinx. But tax collectors are adamant, and it will be provided in taxes or inflated prices, or both.

In his latest book Winston Churchill criticizes American military strategy. It will be interesting to learn what he thinks of American diplomatic strategy.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Flu Protection

Influenza is the seventh leading cause of death in the United States. In this respect the disease is serious but is not the bugaboo feared by those who remember the 1917-18 epidemic. Today the usual attack lasts from two to four days and the majority of victims survive.

There is little the individual can do to escape the flu when it invades a neighborhood. Keeping fit is not the answer because the malady attacks the strong as well as the weak. However, flu spreads like the common cold and staying away from infected persons will minimize the chances of falling prey to the disease. Vaccination offers some hope but is not the perfect solution. Most physicians do not advocate routine immunization of the entire population because the procedure has not ben accepted universally. On the other hand, some good results have been reported and the subject remains open to debate.

The main difficulty with "flu shots" centers about the strain of the virus causing the malady. There are several causative types and one varies so much from the other that they behave like different organisms. At any rate, the vaccine contains strains of A and B plus others that were prevalent the year before. If the type of flu that is making the rounds happens to be caused by one of these agents, the vaccine will work; otherwise it has little or no effect. That's not all. The common cold and other respiratory disorders often are confused with influenza and should one of these infections develop the vaccinated person is likely to complain that the "shots did me no good."

Considering the pros and cons of immunization, however, the procedure seems justifiable. The vaccine protects against the A and B strains, which are the most serious. If an individual can tolerate the injection and is not sensitive to rabbit serum, there is no reason why he should not avail himself of this form of prophylaxis. The usual disappointments will not occur so long as the limitations of the plan are known.

The disease is most prevalent in December and January. Because the vaccine takes from two to four weeks to become effective, the preparation generally is given at this time of the year. Annual injections are recommended as protection lasts for only four to five months, with partial immunity for a short time thereafter. The efficacy of the vaccine varies. In one series of composite studies done at the University of Michigan and Yale university the outcome was as follows:

1943: three times as many unvaccinated subjects came down with the flu as did the vaccinated.
1945: the figure was 10 to one.
1947: no difference.

In seeking the reason for the 1947 experience it was concluded that a new virus had entered the picture against which the vaccine could offer no protection. This is mentioned to demonstrate again the unpredictable nature of the disease and the problems confronting scientists in their quest for a satisfactory method of immunizing against influenza.

EYES AND BRAIN DISEASE

A. M. writes: Do the eyes show any signs of a brain tumor or injury?

REPLY

Yes, if the brain lesion is causing pressure in the area of the eyes; but the absence of eye findings does not necessarily mean that a brain lesion is not present, hence other tests are needed.

PARASITIC INFECTION

L. B. writes: Is trichomonas strictly a woman's infection?

REPLY

No; it is one of the lesser causes of bladder disturbances in men. Other forms of this parasite inhabit the mouth or the intestinal tract in either sex.

BITTERNESS

Mrs. S. writes: What causes a bitter taste in the mouth?

REPLY

For some, it is life but the most common causes are nervousness, indigestion and mouth infections.

DOESN'T MISS A THING

Mrs. H. writes: Last year my little girl went to school and caught everything going. Is there anything I can do this term to prevent another year of sickness?

REPLY

This experience is not unusual because school children are in contact with one another. In time, youngsters develop most of the contagious diseases for which vaccines are not available and the number of illnesses decreases.

MARRIAGE AS A CURE

J. W. writes: Would a single man get cured of shingles if he got married?

REPLY

Perhaps, but she will have to be a good nurse. Shingles is caused by a virus and not the lack of a spouse.

FATIGUE AND WEAKNESS

C. L. writes: I'm on an ulcer diet and feel weak and tired. Is the diet responsible or is this part of the ulcer story?

REPLY

Both may be responsible. In some instances alkalosis is the cause. This stems from too much baking soda or other antacid.

Gen. Eisenhower Recognizes Need For A United States Of Europe; Americans Should Try To Sell Europe Our Declaration Of Independence

WASHINGTON — Three figures in three different parts of the world last week pointed up the story of the world's hopes, its pains, its fears.

FIGURE NO. 1 was a young girl whose courage and graciousness won great sympathy, but who in a way seemed a little sad — because she represents a once-great empire which has seen its best days and now has to lean heavily on wealthy cousins and its dominion children.

FIGURE NO. 2 was an aged, valiant, prime minister, returned to office at the age of 76 to guide the imping destinies of a country whose stock market skidded to alarming lows in a virtual vote of no confidence in even his ability to cope with his nation's crisis.

FIGURE NO. 3 was an American soldier who flew home from Europe to report on his difficult, discouraging task of building up an army to defend countries so war weary they would almost prefer to be conquered than to fight.

Of the three, Winston Churchill represented a brave attempt to revive private enterprise in an area slowly being engulfed in red tape and regulation; Princess Elizabeth represented the brave attempt of the next generation to cope with problems which their elders have so miserably failed to solve; and General Eisenhower represented the thesis that from armed might is derived peace.

All three, however, were symbols of hope — tired, discouraged, lagging hope, it is true, but nevertheless hope.

Money And Hope

That hope in each case, however, was based on virtually the same foundation — money from the U. S. Eisenhower has to have more American money if he is to succeed in rearming Europe. Churchill will desperately need two billions if British finances are not to reach the vanishing point. And it was part of the Princess' job to help create the good-will so necessary for American-British economic cooperation.

However, money is not inexhaustible. Furthermore, it is only a temporary palliative. And while more money will be necessary to bolster British finances and European armament, it is time we worked out long-range plans that will give our European friends permanent hope — not cash-and-carry hope.

As a result of my two visits to Europe this year I would like to urge two deep-rooted and permanent changes for Europe. Both are purely American. They are two of the great principles that have made us great, and without them I do not think Europe can long survive.

One is a United States of Europe.

Two is applying the Declaration of Independence to Europe.

No European Equality

Proposing that these be applied to Europe may sound like pious preaching, but when you don't have equality and unity, you cannot build a firm foundation of peace and free government. Unfortunately, equality, the basic guarantee of the Declaration of Independence, simply does not exist in Europe. It exists politically in France and some other countries, but it does not exist economically. A man is born to a certain economic level, and in most countries there he usually stays. If your mother was a servant in England, the chances are you will be a servant, too. If your father worked at a certain trade in Italy, the chances are you would not be able to rise above his status — unless you migrated to the United States.

Thus the great mass of the people, stuck in one groove, with little chance of improving themselves, abandon hope.

That is why communism, full of wonderful though phony promises of a bright, new horizon, brings hope—plus European converts by the thousands.

Meanwhile we have sat on our hands and failed to sell the greatest creed we have — the Declaration of Independence. We have passed out billions in dollars and material things, but hardly two cents worth of spiritual, cultural or philosophical things.

We have rebuilt factories, helped big business, but have failed completely to attach any of the basic principles of the Declaration of Independence regarding lush profits or workmen's opportunities.

United States Of Europe

Point No. 1, the United States of Europe, is indirectly the chief reason General Eisenhower flew back to Washington.

For in trying to build up a European army, he has had to put the cart before the horse. He has been like George Washington, who tried to draft the Revolutionary army from the 13 colonies. Each colony reserved the right to decide how many men it would send to fight the British, how much they would be paid and when they would be mus-

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Let's Stop Talking Nonsense

CAIRO

On leaving such a city as this, it is difficult not to give way to a sense of despair. For here, in this curious, unpleasant atmosphere, (he air has a sweet, cloying smell, rather like a baby's diaper) it sometimes seems that the isolationists are right; that we should retire into our continental Gibraltar, eat our lotus leaves while we may, and await our inevitable end.

Given a good deal more shrewdness and foresight than London and Washington have clustomarily displayed in these parts, the situation might be glued together here, so that it can be rendered more or less manageable for a time. But only for a time—and what happens after that?

The plain fact is that this is an essentially revolutionary situation. It is true that Americans are apt to be overly horrified by the fantastic contrast between wealth and poverty in such places as Egypt (a contrast to which those from the "capitalist, reactionary" United States are far less accustomed than Europeans). It is true that this contrast has existed since the time of the Pharoahs. Yet the essential fact remains.

The structure of society here—the ruthless exploitation of the many by the very few who own all the land and therefore all the wealth—simply cannot stand up indefinitely. For all sorts of technological and political reasons, some sort of basic and probably violent change is inevitable here. In such a situation, those who stand for violent change are likely ultimately to profit, while those who seem to stand for things as they are will surely lose.

Under the above formula, the Soviets will profit and the West will lose in the present world struggle, in such areas as this. Yet the dilemma of the west is obvious. If only to keep the situation glued together, it is tempting, and indeed for a time it may be necessary for the Anglo-American partnership to use something very like the technique of influence which the British used here and elsewhere for many years and with considerable success.

Controlled By Bribes

The British, in effect, first created the ruling class of Pashas and then controlled this class by bribes of one sort or another. The British needed the Pashas simply because they needed a handle through which to exercise their power in Egypt. British power was sometimes thus exercised by subtle and indirect means. Often the means was most simple and direct.

When, for example, Ernest Bevin perhaps unwisely put a stop to the practice, the Egyptian politicians and journalists whose palms had been regularly greased by the secret funds of the British Embassy were honestly indignant. They have since become professional Britain-baiters to a man.

Because the handle still exists, in the form of a small and by no means incorruptible ruling class, this technique or something like it seems logical, and it might work for a time. But it cannot work indefinitely, as the experience of the British all over this area has shown. The fact is that the present ruling class cannot rule for very much longer, and only rules now by going to any lengths whatsoever to distract the attention of the ruled from the misery of their condition.

Answer Hard To Find

Although it is easy to state the dilemma, it is impossible clearly to see the way out of it. Yet two points may be worth considering.

In the first place, we ought to stop talking nonsense about democracy. Talking about democracy is talking nonsense, as concerns countries like this, where the great majority of the population lives rather below the level of their animals. Democracy here means simply that politicians must outbid each other for the support of the street mobs. This in turn leads straight to the most vicious extremism—"Kill the Jews" yesterday, "Kill the British" today, "Kill the Americans" tomorrow. A wise Anglo-American policy here could bolster the moderates for a time, but if the moderates are not assassinated anyway, the extremists will always overtake them in the end.

The second point follows from the first. What is needed in this sort of situation is a reasonably enlightened dictatorship. The model is Turkey's Kemal Ataturk, who, by making basic changes, transformed a crumbling, corrupt and anarchic society, much like Egypt's today, into a modern state. Tough though it may have been, Ataturk's dictatorship laid the groundwork for the democracy which now functions so surprisingly well in Turkey.

The problem, of course, is to find your Ataturk—in a pinch, we should certainly settle for a Reza Shah Pahlevi. It is hopeless to expect a stooge of the West to exercise power — no stooge of the West could rule. Any stooge of the Pashas, moreover, would in the long run spell victory for the Soviets, since what is needed is precisely the sort of change, including land reform, which the Pashas most fear.

At any rate, it is time to strip ourselves of our illusions. It comes hard for any American to find himself advocating authtoritarian rule anywhere. But the fact remains — the kind of rational dictator who will interest himself in the defense of his country and in the basic change which his country needs to survive as an independent state, is the best we can hope for in such places as Egypt. It is also a great deal better than anything we are likely to get.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is right when he says that confidence in the loyalty of State Department employes will not be fully restored until a bipartisan commission investigates that department's procedures and methods of weeding out loyalty risks.

Mr. Lodge can find backing for his beliefs by a reading of the views of Conrad E. Snow, chairman of the Department of State's Loyalty Security Board. Here is an amazing paragraph from Mr. Snow's public speech:

"Insofar as the administration of the loyalty-security program, by its methods of interrogation, its manner of conducting hearings, its decisions on individual cases, gives support to the public belief that the baseless smears of the demagogue are given effect in the loyalty and security program, it has cooperated in the destruction of freedom of thought and expression."

Mr. Snow's attitude toward the present program evidently is that he must give more attention to public reaction than to cases where "baseless smears" could turn out to be justified accusations.

Disagrees With Dispatch

The hearings are held in secret so nobody knows how the interrogations are carried on. The above paragraph has been interpreted by some government officials to be a veiled criticism of the methods used in departments other than the State Department, where Communists have been found, in contrast with Mr. Snow's asserion that since he took charge in 1947 not a single "present Communist" has been "found" in the State Department.

Chairman Snow in a letter to this correspondent takes issue with a recent dispatch analyzing the public speech of October 25. In that dispatch three quotations were reproduced, and in two of them specific mention was made of the fact that they referred to incidents since 1947. As to the other quotation, Mr. Snow says mention should have been made of his previous statement that he was talking only of what has happened since 1947. Yet Mr. Snow says that if Alger Hiss had been in the Department of State under present loyalty board procedures, he wouldn't have been continued in employment a single day after his acts were discovered. It was Mr. Snow who introduced the Hiss case into his public speech. In fact, he was attempting in the same speech to evaluate the harm done by Hiss with reference to classified papers and he gave the clear impression that he was familiar with what Hiss had done prior to 1947. Otherwise, he couldn't make the comparison he did.

This, however, was not the truly important weakness in Mr. Snow's speech. It was the fact that FBI information doesn't get the consideration in the State Department that it deserves. Mr. Snow in his letter to this correspondent confirms that FBI files do not get to him in all cases. He says:

"If an employe resigns during loyalty investigation and before his case comes to the board, his file is never even seen by the board. If he resigns after the case comes to the board, but before adjudication, the board loses jurisdiction, and the file is withdrawn from the board. If it served any public purpose to discuss publicly individual cases, these files could be examined and statements made regarding the derogatory information contained therein. This would, however, be no part of the function of the Loyalt Security Board, would be contrary to the President's order, and would serve no useful purpose.

Used For Substantiation

"These 40 persons have severed their connections with the department, and their separation was referred to in my speech only to substantiate my statement that there are no known Communists in the department. I do not know that any of the 40 were even alleged to be Communists, and it is unfair to draw conclusions without adjudication. In any event, they have left the department.

"The fact of their departure may, however, furnish the answer to your '$64 question'—as to why, 'although in every other important department of the United States Government disloyalty cases have been "found,"' the State Department Loyalty and Security Board has not found a single case of disloyalty in the department. Of course this fact should not be stated without the accompanying statement that the board has found and recommended dismissal of, 20 'security risks,' as I stated in my speech."

Mr. Snow does not explain why the discovery of 20 "security risks" —admittedly they are differentiated from "disloyalty" cases—should permit readers to draw the conclusion that there have or have not been Communists in the State Department depending on the degree of suspicion created by the words "security risks." Nor does Mr. Snow answer the real objection to the present procedures in the Department of State, which is that a Communist may work in that department nowadays for months, then be investigated by the FBI and, the moment charges are filed with the Loyalty Security Board, the employe is permitted to resign no matter how much damage he did during the course of his employment—and nobody on the loyalty board sees the FBI files. He might even get a job in another government department.

Mr. Snow is not qualified to answer this objection perhaps because he admits that he doesn't read the FBI reports unless a formal hearing is held by his board. The unanswered question is what is really done with FBI reports in the State Department and why does the chairman of the Loyalty Security Board insist that not a single Communist has been "found" when apparently he hasn't read, much l investigated, all the FBI reports that have been filed in the Department of State since 1947 when he became chairman of the board.

The Scarsdale Ladies

Those who devote themselves to the battle of fighting the infiltration of Communists into the life of the American people find their opposition in most unusual places. Often, it is the rich, the upper middle class so-called liberals who run interference against the anti-Communists. Often they do not quite know why they do it, although their stated objective is to have both sides of every question heard, which is laudable enough. Usually it works out that only one side is heard, namely, that of the sleek propagandist for the liberal or internationalist position. The anti-Communist is smeared as pro-Fascist, as a crackpot, or as of bad character.

For 34 years, we have been hearing the Communist side in a rising crescendo of opposition to the United States and to every principle of American life. President Truman stated this phase of the problem adequately in his speech last Wednesday night. Even he, who has bent over backsward trying to find a way to peace with Russia and who once referred to Alger Hiss as a red-herring, is wearying of the tactics of Russia and her supporters.

Now appears a curious situation. The New York State Federation of Women's Clubs invited Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of the American Jewish League Against Communism to address their convention on November 15. The Scarsdale Woman's Club, which consists of ladies in the better-heeled economic group, objected to Rabbi Schultz being the sole speaker on a subject involving our schools, they desiring a debate instead of a lecture. They would not entrust so serious a matter solely to an anti-Communist.

Their opposition arose from the fact that Rabbi Schultz is known to believe that there has been a Communist infiltration into the schools and that textbooks have been written in such a manner that the United States is presented to our children in language and ideas which weaken their love of country, and that Soviet Russia is often extolled. This battle has been fought before in Scarsdale and won by the liberals.

The merits of Rabbi Schultz's position on schools and textbooks need not be discussed here. What is significant is that while it seems to be possible to present the so-called liberal side of the case freely, whenever the strongly anti-Communist side is advocated, opposition arises. This does not mean that the opponents to Rabbi Schultz are Communists, nor even that it is not sound to have a debate, or a dozen debates on the subject. Our children are involved and their mental and spiritual health is as important as keeping them in a rich suburb away from the germ-ridden city.

It does mean that there is a one way rule here, namely, that those who are aggressive in the anti-Communist fight find personal opposition in unusual places and also are smeared for their pains. Few have been as vilely and as unfairly smeared as Rabbi Schultz.

I asked the Scarsdale club for their position in the matter. They replied:

"Thank you for your telegram of November fifth. We do not wish to comment for the press on a matter under discussion between a member club and the New York State Federation.

SCARSDALE WOMENS CLUB."

The next day, a carefully prepared account appeared in "The New York Times," a large part of which was devoted to an attack on the character and career of Rabbi Schultz. It would apear from that account that those who objected to the rabbi lecturing on public schools and textbooks before these ladies were more annoyed with his violent anti-communism than with his prospective speech. The late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise was quoted on the subject of Communist baiting as though that were a criminal offense.

This is but one example of a tendency to class active anti-Communists as crackpots or queens or something horrible by liberals who still seem not to know that Russia is our enemy, that infiltration into our public life is being used as a weapon, that many textbooks have presented the wrong position to our children and that our peril is that the will to defend our country against this virulent enemy is being weakened. This weakness is apparent in the continued unwillingness of many educated and otherwise knowing persons to recognize infiltration and propaganda as weapons of the war against this country.

Sometimes I wonder whether these so-called liberals are truly liberal in their attitude or employ a smiling guise to make the fight against weakening ideologies too unpleasant to pursue.

Women In Armed Services

The military establishment today "aggressively favors the use of women in an unbelievably wide variety of jobs, at home and abroad," according to Secretary of the Army Pace. At the beginning of World War II, on the other hand, the women soldiers were assigned, in the words of Dorothy C. Stratton, who directed the SPARS (Women's Coast Guard Reserves), "only the simplest and least responsible tasks."

In World War I the service of women in the armed forces—apart from nurses—has been described as "a tentative experiment." Not until 1942, some six months after the U. S. had entered World War II, did Congress authorize the service of women in armed forces auxiliaries. Members of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps (WAAC) were given on July 1, 1943, the right to full Army ratings, grades, privileges, and benefits as belonging to a component of the Army (WAC).

Women reserves of the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard were afforded the same disability and other allowances as male officers and enlisted men in September, 1944. But Navy women could serve outside the United States only on a voluntary basis, and then only at Hawaii and bases in the Western Hemisphere.

The Women's Army Corps and Air Force reserve had been scheduled to pass out of existence at the end of June, 1948. But the Women's Armed Services Integration Act of that year provided for their transfer to regular status, along with the women's naval and marine reserve components, over a period of years. Some WAVEs are now stationed overseas.

The strength of regular women's components originally was to be limited to two per cent of the total authorized strength of the armed services. That two per cent limitation was suspended until July 1, 1954, by the Selective Service Extension Act of 1951.

Nine women's services are now in existence. Four —the WAC, WAF (Air Force), WAVEs (Navy), and Women Marines—carry on general military activities. The Army, Air Force, and Navy have nurse corps. And the Army and Air Force have corps of women medical specialists, including dietitians, physical therapists, occupational therapists. The SPARS have not yet been reactivated.

The Army, Navy, and Air Force urgently need nurses, and will continue to need them. In other capacities also enlistment of women has fallen short of need and expectation. Including the Army Nurse Corps, only 18,000 of the Army's total strength of 1,500,000 are women. Thus, although the old limitation of two per cent of the total authorized strength of the services has been suspended, women in the Army represent only slightly more than one per cent of total strength.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg has said that drafting of women "simply isn't in the cards." But according to Col. Mary A. Hallaren, director of the WAC, "American women can well be the margin between victory and defeat if only their utilization is planned intelligently in connection with manpower. The machinery is national registration and general service."

Risk In Yugoslavia

The officially recognized slowdown strike by Yugoslav peasants offers a new and perplexing aspect to this country's current policy of military and economic aid to Tito.

By concertedly reducing production, Yugoslavia's farmers resist Tito's Communist policy of land collectivization and compulsory delivery of foodstuffs to the state. The slowdown is probably the only means—short of armed rebellion—by which an important segment of the Yugoslav people can try to throw off the yoke of authoritarianism.

Were this to occur behind the Iron Curtain, the United States would be the first to applaud. By every means possible, encouragement would be extended to such a demonstration of independence.

American arms and economic assistance are being given Tito to encourage his own revolt against the Kremlin and to protect him against Soviet retaliation. These are reasons considered sufficiently sound to justify the risk that Tito, in a doube-cross, might one day use that aid against the West.

But American aid is not being given to strengthen Tito's grip on the Yugoslav masses. Nor is it, in fact, to perpetuate a system diametrically opposed to every American principle. It is up to the United States Government to impress that fact upon Dictator Tito no matter how he insists that he will not compromise his own principles.

Our Workers Have Cars

For the first time since World War II a German ship with a German crew docked at Wilmington, Del., the other day. That's significant, though the SS Emsriff is only an "old scow" in the eyes of her engineer, because it brings home the fact that the German merchant marine is back on the seas. It's also interesting —because members of her crew found their first glimpse of this country incredible, and said so.

The Emsriff was sunk during the war and for four years she lay under water. Then, in 1949, she was raised and rebuilt. Now she is sailing the high seas, at a speed "of about 10 knots," which means that she can carry a cargo of cork from Portugal to this country in 18 days. That's better than Columbus did, as the engineer pointed out, but the passage couldn't be called fast. The parallel between the vessel and the German economy hardly needs further elaboration.

As for the German seamen, Second Mate Alfred Pfeiffenberger spoke for them. He noted that "hundreds of automobiles arrived" the moment the ship docked. He added: "From them stepped not port officials, not harbor executives, but stevedores! Why, not a man on this ship has ever owned a car—and there are 39 of us, including the captain."

Per Capita Cost, $636

Total appropriations voted by the recent session of Congress amounted to more than $91,000,000,000, and this figure does not include $7,000,000,000 for certain more or less permanent items, including $6,000,000,000 for interest on the national debt.

Broken down to a per capital basis, this works out at $636 for each of 154,000,000 Americans, or more than $2,500 for an average family of four. How the head of such a family is going to get that $2,500 is a point on which congressmen are as silent as the Sphinx. But tax collectors are adamant, and it will be provided in taxes or inflated prices, or both.

In his latest book Winston Churchill criticizes American military strategy. It will be interesting to learn what he thinks of American diplomatic strategy.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Flu Protection

Influenza is the seventh leading cause of death in the United States. In this respect the disease is serious but is not the bugaboo feared by those who remember the 1917-18 epidemic. Today the usual attack lasts from two to four days and the majority of victims survive.

There is little the individual can do to escape the flu when it invades a neighborhood. Keeping fit is not the answer because the malady attacks the strong as well as the weak. However, flu spreads like the common cold and staying away from infected persons will minimize the chances of falling prey to the disease. Vaccination offers some hope but is not the perfect solution. Most physicians do not advocate routine immunization of the entire population because the procedure has not ben accepted universally. On the other hand, some good results have been reported and the subject remains open to debate.

The main difficulty with "flu shots" centers about the strain of the virus causing the malady. There are several causative types and one varies so much from the other that they behave like different organisms. At any rate, the vaccine contains strains of A and B plus others that were prevalent the year before. If the type of flu that is making the rounds happens to be caused by one of these agents, the vaccine will work; otherwise it has little or no effect. That's not all. The common cold and other respiratory disorders often are confused with influenza and should one of these infections develop the vaccinated person is likely to complain that the "shots did me no good."

Considering the pros and cons of immunization, however, the procedure seems justifiable. The vaccine protects against the A and B strains, which are the most serious. If an individual can tolerate the injection and is not sensitive to rabbit serum, there is no reason why he should not avail himself of this form of prophylaxis. The usual disappointments will not occur so long as the limitations of the plan are known.

The disease is most prevalent in December and January. Because the vaccine takes from two to four weeks to become effective, the preparation generally is given at this time of the year. Annual injections are recommended as protection lasts for only four to five months, with partial immunity for a short time thereafter. The efficacy of the vaccine varies. In one series of composite studies done at the University of Michigan and Yale university the outcome was as follows:

1943: three times as many unvaccinated subjects came down with the flu as did the vaccinated.

In seeking the reason for the 1947 experience it was concluded that a new virus had entered the picture against which the vaccine could offer no protection. This is mentioned to demonstrate again the unpredictable nature of the disease and the problems confronting scientists in their quest for a satisfactory method of immunizing against influenza.

EYES AND BRAIN DISEASE

A. M. writes: Do the eyes show any signs of a brain tumor or injury?

REPLY

Yes, if the brain lesion is causing pressure in the area of the eyes; but the absence of eye findings does not necessarily mean that a brain lesion is not present, hence other tests are needed.

PARASITIC INFECTION

L. B. writes: Is trichomonas strictly a woman's infection?

REPLY

No; it is one of the lesser causes of bladder disturbances in men. Other forms of this parasite inhabit the mouth or the intestinal tract in either sex.

BITTERNESS

Mrs. S. writes: What causes a bitter taste in the mouth?

REPLY

For some, it is life but the most common causes are nervousness, indigestion and mouth infections.

DOESN'T MISS A THING

Mrs. H. writes: Last year my little girl went to school and caught everything going. Is there anything I can do this term to prevent another year of sickness?

REPLY

This experience is not unusual because school children are in contact with one another. In time, youngsters develop most of the contagious diseases for which vaccines are not available and the number of illnesses decreases.

MARRIAGE AS A CURE

J. W. writes: Would a single man get cured of shingles if he got married?

REPLY

Perhaps, but she will have to be a good nurse. Shingles is caused by a virus and not the lack of a spouse.

FATIGUE AND WEAKNESS

C. L. writes: I'm on an ulcer diet and feel weak and tired. Is the diet responsible or is this part of the ulcer story?

REPLY

Both may be responsible. In some instances alkalosis is the cause. This stems from too much baking soda or other antacid.

Gen. Eisenhower Recognizes Need For A United States Of Europe; Americans Should Try To Sell Europe Our Declaration Of Independence

WASHINGTON — Three figures in three different parts of the world last week pointed up the story of the world's hopes, its pains, its fears.

FIGURE NO. 1 was a young girl whose courage and graciousness won great sympathy, but who in a way seemed a little sad — because she represents a once-great empire which has seen its best days and now has to lean heavily on wealthy cousins and its dominion children.

FIGURE NO. 2 was an aged, valiant, prime minister, returned to office at the age of 76 to guide the imping destinies of a country whose stock market skidded to alarming lows in a virtual vote of no confidence in even his ability to cope with his nation's crisis.

FIGURE NO. 3 was an American soldier who flew home from Europe to report on his difficult, discouraging task of building up an army to defend countries so war weary they would almost prefer to be conquered than to fight.

Of the three, Winston Churchill represented a brave attempt to revive private enterprise in an area slowly being engulfed in red tape and regulation; Princess Elizabeth represented the brave attempt of the next generation to cope with problems which their elders have so miserably failed to solve; and General Eisenhower represented the thesis that from armed might is derived peace.

All three, however, were symbols of hope — tired, discouraged, lagging hope, it is true, but nevertheless hope.

Money And Hope

That hope in each case, however, was based on virtually the same foundation — money from the U. S. Eisenhower has to have more American money if he is to succeed in rearming Europe. Churchill will desperately need two billions if British finances are not to reach the vanishing point. And it was part of the Princess' job to help create the good-will so necessary for American-British economic cooperation.

However, money is not inexhaustible. Furthermore, it is only a temporary palliative. And while more money will be necessary to bolster British finances and European armament, it is time we worked out long-range plans that will give our European friends permanent hope — not cash-and-carry hope.

As a result of my two visits to Europe this year I would like to urge two deep-rooted and permanent changes for Europe. Both are purely American. They are two of the great principles that have made us great, and without them I do not think Europe can long survive.

One is a United States of Europe.

No European Equality

Proposing that these be applied to Europe may sound like pious preaching, but when you don't have equality and unity, you cannot build a firm foundation of peace and free government. Unfortunately, equality, the basic guarantee of the Declaration of Independence, simply does not exist in Europe. It exists politically in France and some other countries, but it does not exist economically. A man is born to a certain economic level, and in most countries there he usually stays. If your mother was a servant in England, the chances are you will be a servant, too. If your father worked at a certain trade in Italy, the chances are you would not be able to rise above his status — unless you migrated to the United States.

Thus the great mass of the people, stuck in one groove, with little chance of improving themselves, abandon hope.

That is why communism, full of wonderful though phony promises of a bright, new horizon, brings hope—plus European converts by the thousands.

Meanwhile we have sat on our hands and failed to sell the greatest creed we have — the Declaration of Independence. We have passed out billions in dollars and material things, but hardly two cents worth of spiritual, cultural or philosophical things.

We have rebuilt factories, helped big business, but have failed completely to attach any of the basic principles of the Declaration of Independence regarding lush profits or workmen's opportunities.

United States Of Europe

Point No. 1, the United States of Europe, is indirectly the chief reason General Eisenhower flew back to Washington.

For in trying to build up a European army, he has had to put the cart before the horse. He has been like George Washington, who tried to draft the Revolutionary army from the 13 colonies. Each colony reserved the right to decide how many men it would send to fight the British, how much they would be paid and when they would be mus-

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Let's Stop Talking Nonsense

CAIRO

On leaving such a city as this, it is difficult not to give way to a sense of despair. For here, in this curious, unpleasant atmosphere, (he air has a sweet, cloying smell, rather like a baby's diaper) it sometimes seems that the isolationists are right; that we should retire into our continental Gibraltar, eat our lotus leaves while we may, and await our inevitable end.

Given a good deal more shrewdness and foresight than London and Washington have clustomarily displayed in these parts, the situation might be glued together here, so that it can be rendered more or less manageable for a time. But only for a time—and what happens after that?

The plain fact is that this is an essentially revolutionary situation. It is true that Americans are apt to be overly horrified by the fantastic contrast between wealth and poverty in such places as Egypt (a contrast to which those from the "capitalist, reactionary" United States are far less accustomed than Europeans). It is true that this contrast has existed since the time of the Pharoahs. Yet the essential fact remains.

The structure of society here—the ruthless exploitation of the many by the very few who own all the land and therefore all the wealth—simply cannot stand up indefinitely. For all sorts of technological and political reasons, some sort of basic and probably violent change is inevitable here. In such a situation, those who stand for violent change are likely ultimately to profit, while those who seem to stand for things as they are will surely lose.

Under the above formula, the Soviets will profit and the West will lose in the present world struggle, in such areas as this. Yet the dilemma of the west is obvious. If only to keep the situation glued together, it is tempting, and indeed for a time it may be necessary for the Anglo-American partnership to use something very like the technique of influence which the British used here and elsewhere for many years and with considerable success.

Controlled By Bribes

The British, in effect, first created the ruling class of Pashas and then controlled this class by bribes of one sort or another. The British needed the Pashas simply because they needed a handle through which to exercise their power in Egypt. British power was sometimes thus exercised by subtle and indirect means. Often the means was most simple and direct.

When, for example, Ernest Bevin perhaps unwisely put a stop to the practice, the Egyptian politicians and journalists whose palms had been regularly greased by the secret funds of the British Embassy were honestly indignant. They have since become professional Britain-baiters to a man.

Because the handle still exists, in the form of a small and by no means incorruptible ruling class, this technique or something like it seems logical, and it might work for a time. But it cannot work indefinitely, as the experience of the British all over this area has shown. The fact is that the present ruling class cannot rule for very much longer, and only rules now by going to any lengths whatsoever to distract the attention of the ruled from the misery of their condition.

Answer Hard To Find

Although it is easy to state the dilemma, it is impossible clearly to see the way out of it. Yet two points may be worth considering.

In the first place, we ought to stop talking nonsense about democracy. Talking about democracy is talking nonsense, as concerns countries like this, where the great majority of the population lives rather below the level of their animals. Democracy here means simply that politicians must outbid each other for the support of the street mobs. This in turn leads straight to the most vicious extremism—"Kill the Jews" yesterday, "Kill the British" today, "Kill the Americans" tomorrow. A wise Anglo-American policy here could bolster the moderates for a time, but if the moderates are not assassinated anyway, the extremists will always overtake them in the end.

The second point follows from the first. What is needed in this sort of situation is a reasonably enlightened dictatorship. The model is Turkey's Kemal Ataturk, who, by making basic changes, transformed a crumbling, corrupt and anarchic society, much like Egypt's today, into a modern state. Tough though it may have been, Ataturk's dictatorship laid the groundwork for the democracy which now functions so surprisingly well in Turkey.

The problem, of course, is to find your Ataturk—in a pinch, we should certainly settle for a Reza Shah Pahlevi. It is hopeless to expect a stooge of the West to exercise power — no stooge of the West could rule. Any stooge of the Pashas, moreover, would in the long run spell victory for the Soviets, since what is needed is precisely the sort of change, including land reform, which the Pashas most fear.

At any rate, it is time to strip ourselves of our illusions. It comes hard for any American to find himself advocating authtoritarian rule anywhere. But the fact remains — the kind of rational dictator who will interest himself in the defense of his country and in the basic change which his country needs to survive as an independent state, is the best we can hope for in such places as Egypt. It is also a great deal better than anything we are likely to get.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts is right when he says that confidence in the loyalty of State Department employes will not be fully restored until a bipartisan commission investigates that department's procedures and methods of weeding out loyalty risks.

Mr. Lodge can find backing for his beliefs by a reading of the views of Conrad E. Snow, chairman of the Department of State's Loyalty Security Board. Here is an amazing paragraph from Mr. Snow's public speech:

"Insofar as the administration of the loyalty-security program, by its methods of interrogation, its manner of conducting hearings, its decisions on individual cases, gives support to the public belief that the baseless smears of the demagogue are given effect in the loyalty and security program, it has cooperated in the destruction of freedom of thought and expression."

Mr. Snow's attitude toward the present program evidently is that he must give more attention to public reaction than to cases where "baseless smears" could turn out to be justified accusations.

Disagrees With Dispatch

The hearings are held in secret so nobody knows how the interrogations are carried on. The above paragraph has been interpreted by some government officials to be a veiled criticism of the methods used in departments other than the State Department, where Communists have been found, in contrast with Mr. Snow's asserion that since he took charge in 1947 not a single "present Communist" has been "found" in the State Department.

Chairman Snow in a letter to this correspondent takes issue with a recent dispatch analyzing the public speech of October 25. In that dispatch three quotations were reproduced, and in two of them specific mention was made of the fact that they referred to incidents since 1947. As to the other quotation, Mr. Snow says mention should have been made of his previous statement that he was talking only of what has happened since 1947. Yet Mr. Snow says that if Alger Hiss had been in the Department of State under present loyalty board procedures, he wouldn't have been continued in employment a single day after his acts were discovered. It was Mr. Snow who introduced the Hiss case into his public speech. In fact, he was attempting in the same speech to evaluate the harm done by Hiss with reference to classified papers and he gave the clear impression that he was familiar with what Hiss had done prior to 1947. Otherwise, he couldn't make the comparison he did.

This, however, was not the truly important weakness in Mr. Snow's speech. It was the fact that FBI information doesn't get the consideration in the State Department that it deserves. Mr. Snow in his letter to this correspondent confirms that FBI files do not get to him in all cases. He says:

"If an employe resigns during loyalty investigation and before his case comes to the board, his file is never even seen by the board. If he resigns after the case comes to the board, but before adjudication, the board loses jurisdiction, and the file is withdrawn from the board. If it served any public purpose to discuss publicly individual cases, these files could be examined and statements made regarding the derogatory information contained therein. This would, however, be no part of the function of the Loyalt Security Board, would be contrary to the President's order, and would serve no useful purpose.

Used For Substantiation

"These 40 persons have severed their connections with the department, and their separation was referred to in my speech only to substantiate my statement that there are no known Communists in the department. I do not know that any of the 40 were even alleged to be Communists, and it is unfair to draw conclusions without adjudication. In any event, they have left the department.

"The fact of their departure may, however, furnish the answer to your '$64 question'—as to why, 'although in every other important department of the United States Government disloyalty cases have been "found,"' the State Department Loyalty and Security Board has not found a single case of disloyalty in the department. Of course this fact should not be stated without the accompanying statement that the board has found and recommended dismissal of, 20 'security risks,' as I stated in my speech."

Mr. Snow does not explain why the discovery of 20 "security risks"—admittedly they are differentiated from "disloyalty" cases—should permit readers to draw the conclusion that there have or have not been Communists in the State Department depending on the degree of suspicion created by the words "security risks." Nor does Mr. Snow answer the real objection to the present procedures in the Department of State, which is that a Communist may work in that department nowadays for months, then be investigated by the FBI and, the moment charges are filed with the Loyalty Security Board, the employe is permitted to resign no matter how much damage he did during the course of his employment—and nobody on the loyalty board sees the FBI files. He might even get a job in another government department.

Mr. Snow is not qualified to answer this objection perhaps because he admits that he doesn't read the FBI reports unless a formal hearing is held by his board. The unanswered question is what is really done with FBI reports in the State Department and why does the chairman of the Loyalty Security Board insist that not a single Communist has been "found" when apparently he hasn't read, much l investigated, all the FBI reports that have been filed in the Department of State since 1947 when he became chairman of the board.

These Days

The Scarsdale Ladies

Those who devote themselves to the battle of fighting the infiltration of Communists into the life of the American people find their opposition in most unusual places. Often, it is the rich, the upper middle class so-called liberals who run interference against the anti-Communists. Often they do not quite know why they do it, although their stated objective is to have both sides of every question heard, which is laudable enough. Usually it works out that only one side is heard, namely, that of the sleek propagandist for the liberal or internationalist position. The anti-Communist is smeared as pro-Fascist, as a crackpot, or as of bad character.

For 34 years, we have been hearing the Communist side in a rising crescendo of opposition to the United States and to every principle of American life. President Truman stated this phase of the problem adequately in his speech last Wednesday night. Even he, who has bent over backward trying to find a way to peace with Russia and who once referred to Alger Hiss as a red-herring, is wearying of the tactics of Russia and her supporters.

Now appears a curious situation. The New York State Federation of Women's Clubs invited Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of the American Jewish League Against Communism to address their convention on November 15. The Scarsdale Woman's Club, which consists of ladies in the better-heeled economic group, objected to Rabbi Schultz being the sole speaker on a subject involving our schools, they desiring a debate instead of a lecture. They would not entrust so serious a matter solely to an anti-Communist.

Their opposition arose from the fact that Rabbi Schultz is known to believe that there has been a Communist infiltration into the schools and that textbooks have been written in such a manner that the United States is presented to our children in language and ideas which weaken their love of country, and that Soviet Russia is often extolled. This battle has been fought before in Scarsdale and won by the liberals.

The merits of Rabbi Schultz's position on schools and textbooks need not be discussed here. What is significant is that while it seems to be possible to present the so-called liberal side of the case freely, whenever the strongly anti-Communist side is advocated, opposition arises. This does not mean that the opponents to Rabbi Schultz are Communists, nor even that it is not sound to have a debate, or a dozen debates on the subject. Our children are involved and their mental and spiritual health is as important as keeping them in a rich suburb away from the germ-ridden city.

It does mean that there is a one way rule here, namely, that those who are aggressive in the anti-Communist fight find personal opposition in unusual places and also are smeared for their pains. Few have been as vilely and as unfairly smeared as Rabbi Schultz.

I asked the Scarsdale club for their position in the matter. They replied:

"Thank you for your telegram of November fifth. We do not wish to comment for the press on a matter under discussion between a member club and the New York State Federation.

SCARSDALE WOMENS CLUB."

The next day, a carefully prepared account appeared in "The New York Times," a large part of which was devoted to an attack on the character and career of Rabbi Schultz. It would apear from that account that those who objected to the rabbi lecturing on public schools and textbooks before these ladies were more annoyed with his violent anti-communism than with his prospective speech. The late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise was quoted on the subject of Communist baiting as though that were a criminal offense.

This is but one example of a tendency to class active anti-Communists as crackpots or queens or something horrible by liberals who still seem not to know that Russia is our enemy, that infiltration into our public life is being used as a weapon, that many textbooks have presented the wrong position to our children and that our peril is that the will to defend our country against this virulent enemy is being weakened. This weakness is apparent in the continued unwillingness of many educated and otherwise knowing persons to recognize infiltration and propaganda as weapons of the war against this country.

Sometimes I wonder whether these so-called liberals are truly liberal in their attitude or employ a smiling guise to make the fight against weakening ideologies too unpleasant to pursue.

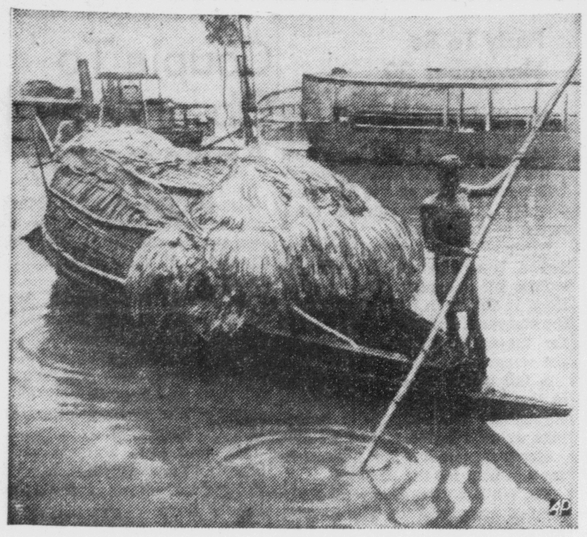
This Sea Captain Moves Pakistan Jute



FOR EXPORT—Boatman takes a load of Pakistan jute to be baled before it is shipped to foreign customers.

By SELIG G. HARRISON
AP Newsfeatures

CHITTAGONG, East Pakistan—Capt. Hans Hansen, 58-year-old Finish-born resident of Scarsdale, N. Y., has more than doubled exports from Chittagong since he took charge as port director in 1949.

"When I came no one showed up at the docks until 10 in the morning, and not always then, Hansen says. I told 'em 7 o'clock and I go down myself to make sure there's no funny stuff."

Delighted Pakistan government officials, anxious to smooth the way for overseas shipments of East Pakistan's jute crop, the biggest portion, of world cultivation, do not share the testy sentiments of dock laborers.

Hansen learned port management through a sea career started at the age of 14. In World War II he was a Navy captain, managing the port at Newport News, Va.

In a classified ad in a New York newspaper the government of Pakistan, asked trained help, including port management.

"A friend dared me to apply, it was something of a joke," Hansen recalls. "But darned if they didn't bite."

Instead of facilities for six ships, maximum under the British, Hansen has pushed the number to 17, and more are in the offing. Shiny new warehouses are filled with millions of bales of jute, used in burlap sacks, gunny bags, packing crates and bales, auto cushion springs, and linoleoum carpet backing.

Of a 6,600,000 bale crop last year more than 2,000,000 bales went through Chittagong.

The threat of Indo-Pakistan hostilities has placed Hansen in a key position, for the cutting off of Pakistan's jute exports would, in the view of many observers, be India's first step in any war. Hansen has prepared detailed port defense plans in conjunction wtih military authorities.

Three Brothers Make Death Pact

LEEDS, England (AP) — When the Korean campaign began, three Leeds brothers made a pact that they would each volunteer to take the place of any brother killed in action.

One of them, 21-year-old Raymond Kinne was then in the British Army and was drafted to Korea. Last October Raymond died in action. When the news came to the Kinne family, the remaining two brothers agreed that the pact should be kept. Derek, 20, went. He was reported missing in heavy fighting, and so it came to 19-year-old Valentine's turn. He is already in the Army, doing his two-year term of military training.

Then the mother of the three brothers stepped in and persuaded the youngest to call the pact off. "He is already doing his bit as a National Service man," she said. In past months Mrs. Kinne, who is a cook in a Leeds cafe, has received personal letters from Prime Minister Attlee and General MacArthur about her boys' patrioitism.

Turkey's first secret ballot election took place in May, 1950.

Horse Marines Are On The Job Again

AP Newsfeatures

QUANTICO, Va. — Did someone say "horse Marines?" The Leathernecks are taking up with dobbin again.

The Marines aren't out to revive the slashing cavalry troops of old. But they have begun to realize, from lessons learned in the rocky ridges of Korea, that there is plenty of room for the horse in modern warfare.

Here at the big Marine base the Marines are putting recent combat experience to use. They are teaching young lieutenants the value and use of pack animals for lugging heavy weapons and supplies to fighting spots where motor vehicles can't go.

There are times in jungle and mountain warfare where the horse —or mule or burro—can leave the truck or weapons carrier at the post. A horse or any of his four-footed cousins, for that matter, is a natural transport ally in guerrilla operations. No roaring engine or clashing gears to tip off the opposition.

Where will the Marines get the pack animals in combat areas? They'll take 'em where they find 'em. An important part of the course is the "recruitment" as well as the use of native animals.

The key to the new course is improvisation. Officers learn how to lash cumbersome supplies and weighty weapons to ordinary riding saddles—how to make pack saddles out of wood, rope and even blankets.

PACKING UP can be an art when horses are used.

Completion of the course won't qualify a Marine to take his mount over the jumps in the Madison Square Garden Horse Show. But it will teach him—and teach him to teach others—in the proper care and maintenance of horses.

"They are not being trained as cavalry or anything that remotely approximates cavalry," said Lt. Gen. Franklin A. Hart, Marine Corps school commandant of the small unit of officers taking the training.

Cool Tires Urged

AKRON, O. (AP)—High speed summer driving over hot roads can cause tires to wear out rapidly says W. F. Perkins, B. F. Goodrich engineer.

"Driving a car between 50 and 60 miles an hour in 90 degree temperatures builds up considerable heat inside tires and results in speedy tread wear," Perkins explained. "Driving with too little air in a tire also generates considerable heat."

He recommends that vacationing motorists keep their top speed at or slightly below 45 miles per hour to obtain economy in gas consumption and maximum tire wear.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The sickening part of the endless truce talks in Korea, aside from the awful fact men die daily while torrents of words flow, is the negotiators know full well that when they do create a document and solemnly sign it it won't be worth a tinker's dam.

Any pact to which a Communist power affixes its name is a brutal mockery of good faith and noble intention to abide by stated provisions. It is as much a part of the Red technique to violate the basic precepts of Western integrity as it is to infiltrate the lands and ideals which motivate the West.

The Korean truce, assuming it gets to the signing stage, will be as hollow and essentially meaningless as the phony Stockholm peace agreement which millions of deluded persons signed in the hope that the paper's sponsor, the USSR, meant thereafter to wage peace instead of a vilely insidious war of nerves and a hotter one involving puppet peoples.

Russia put its name to pacts which promised "free and unfettered" elections in Poland and other countries, now helpless captives of the Kremlin. It agreed, at momentous conferences during the big war, to strive for the freedom of the oppressed, then launched a wave of oppression on a scale never before known. It has rebuffed every organized attempt by UN to bring about an enduring peace. Its refusal to disarm and demobilize after World War II, as it agreed, is the only reason why this country is arming and helping weaker nations to rearm.

Vishinsky is rated by good men as one of the more monumental liars of the modern world, for he has been a vicious spokesman of a historic conspiracy against the soul of man. But he must have been speaking one of the rare truths of his life last week when he told the UN Assembly in Paris that he could not sleep the previous night for laughing at the sincerely-spoken words of the Americans, Truman and Acheson, pleading for a rust-proof peace.

Vishinsky could indeed laugh, but it was the hyena cackle of a despotic time when the free world is sorely beset and is being made bankrupt by an enemy who operates under rules that bewilder and dismay a civilization based on a rule which we recognize as golden.

The truce talks have been blowing hot and cold since the end of last June. We have shown every disposition to bend over as far backwards as we can afford to bend in these efforts if we hope to hold up our heads in Japan, Formosa and other parts of the Orient where we hope to have friendly relations in the future.

We wanted the talks to take place on a Danish mercy ship but readily sent representatives to Kaesong, the only important place below the 38th parallel which the enormous tide of North Korean and Chinese Red troops was able to pierce and hold. We agreed not to send our negotiators by helicopter to the actual site of the talks because the appearance of this remarkable aerial gadget would reflect on the industrial inability of their people to produce similar transportation.

We apparently are willing to forget the fine triumphs of the men who swept all the way north to the Yalu River and—until the Russians sent the Chinese Reds in—took the bloody and expensive steps which might have made Korea a nation instead of two bristling camps which must always be a source of mutual irritation.

Agreement almost has been reached on what would be, if honest men were being dealt with, a true truce. It has been decided that the buffer zone shall be two and a half miles wide. The line of the zone has been set for two-thirds of the way across the peninsula, but we have balked at the demand that it follow the current battle line so as to include the Kaesong area in their zone of influence.

This much seems certain: If it is true, as polls indicate, that the people of this country are so fed up with Communist tactics and arrogance as to want to fight another depleting war and get it over with, it is because so many of us are touched by the terror of the situation in Korea and its terrible implications. Sons, husbands, brothers, relatives and friends of millions of Americans are dying daily during the time when we are sincerely talking peace, and those same millions have come to the frightful empty feeling that even when we get the signed paper the other side will consider it a contemptible nothing.

A Toast To Spareribs!

With a record supply of pork on hand, popular spareribs will be the homemakers' choice for many a dinner these days. The handy thing about spareribs is that they may be cooked so many different ways—you can "boil" them, bake them or roast them. In cooking spareribs, follow these general instructions: Spareribs Cooked in Water—Cut into serving pieces and place in a large pan with boiling water to cover. Season with salt, sliced onion, celery leaves and parsley sprigs. Simmer until tender, about 2 hours. If you're serving the ribs with sauerkraut, you can add this the last 30 minutes of cooking. Roast Spareribs—Roast in a 325°F. oven for 1½ hours, using dressing between sections of ribs, if desired. Braised Spareribs — Place sauerkraut and little hot water in bottom of roasting pan. Place ribs over kraut, cover pan tightly and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 1½ hours. Uncover last half hour.

Do you know how to cleanse your beauty equipment? Scrupulous cleanliness is your beauty's protection!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Would the microscopic examination of your beauty equipment reveal you as a dainty person — or one who ignores the threat of infection to beauty and health?

It's difficult to understand why so many girls who wouldn't think of touching an unwashed drinking glass to their lips will use beauty gadgets over and over, ignoring their lack of cleanliness entirely.

Protecting your Beauty

That such articles are personal is no excuse. A grimy puff can spread a minor skin infection to major proportions. A dusty hairbrush can irritate a scalp dermatitis to such extent that it may spread to your face.

Unless you keep your applicators pristine, you're falling into dangerous ways. To minimize any threat to your beauty, always:

Wash your hairbrushes and combs (including side combs) before they need it. Let them soak for about ten minutes in synthetic-detergent suds; then rinse thoroughly under hot, running water. Next, fill the basin with warm water, add a few drops of cologne, and whisk your paraphernalia through it. Wipe or shake off the excess water and place in the sun to dry. What a pleasure they'll be to use!

Give your eyebrow, complexion, and body brushes the benefit of regular soakings and sunnings. Rinse out your mascara brush after using and store it in a small container filled with fresh tap water.

Brush-ups

A tooth brush should be rinsed in hot water after each using and hung to dry. Tooth brushes last longer and give better results if you have at least three to use in rotation.

And what of your lipstick brush? Wipe it clean after each using and leave it exposed to air.

Never use a brush in a beauty shop unless it has been sterlized. To prevent infection of various kinds, dip orange sticks, nippers, cuticle scissors, and eyebrow tweezers in alcohol before and after using.

Cleanliness is always the antecedent of beauty!

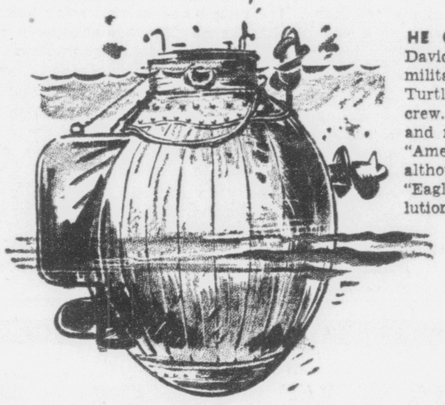
12 YEARS BEFORE THE PILGRIMS LANDED. The first glass factory in America was set up one mile from Jamestown, Va., in 1608. From this factory came the first bottle blown in America. Bottles made in this factory became the first manufactured product exported from this country. The factory was destroyed in 1622 by Indians who massacred the inhabitants of Jamestown.



HE CARRIED WAR UNDERWATER. In 1777, David Bushnell built the first submarine for military purposes. It was called the "American Turtle." The submarine carried a one-man crew. The operator could cause it to submerge and rise by pumping water in and out. The "American Turtle" was not a military success, although it nearly sank the English warship "Eagle" in New York harbor during the Revolutionary War.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The sickening part of the endless truce talks in Korea, aside from the awful fact men die daily while torrents of words flow, is the negotiators know full well that when they do create a document and solemnly sign it it won't be worth a tinker's dam.

Any pact to which a Communist power affixes its name is a brutal mockery of good faith and noble intention to abide by stated provisions. It is as much a part of the Red technique to violate the basic precepts of Western integrity as it is to infiltrate the lands and ideals which motivate the West.

The Korean truce, assuming it gets to the signing stage, will be as hollow and essentially meaningless as the phony Stockholm peace agreement which millions of deluded persons signed in the hope that the paper's sponsor, the USSR, meant thereafter to wage peace instead of a vilely insidious war of nerves and a hotter one involving puppet peoples.

Russia put its name to pacts which promised "free and unfettered" elections in Poland and other countries, now helpless captives of the Kremlin. It agreed, at momentous conferences during the big war, to strive for the freedom of the oppressed, then launched a wave of oppression on a scale never before known. It has rebuffed every organized attempt by UN to bring about an enduring peace. Its refusal to disarm and demobilize after World War II, as it agreed, is the only reason why this country is arming and helping weaker nations to rearm.

Vishinsky is rated by good men as one of the more monumental liars of the modern world, for he has been a vicious spokesman of a historic conspiracy against the soul of man. But he must have been speaking one of the rare truths of his life last week when he told the UN Assembly in Paris that he could not sleep the previous night for laughing at the sincerely-spoken words of the Americans, Truman and Acheson, pleading for a rust-proof peace.

Vishinsky could indeed laugh, but it was the hyena cackle of a despotic time when the free world is sorely beset and is being made bankrupt by an enemy who operates under rules that bewilder and dismay a civilization based on a rule which we recognize as golden.

The truce talks have been blowing hot and cold since the end of last June. We have shown every disposition to bend over as far backwards as we can afford to bend in these efforts if we hope to hold up our heads in Japan, Formosa and other parts of the Orient where we hope to have friendly relations in the future.

We wanted the talks to take place on a Danish mercy ship but readily sent representatives to Kaesong, the only important place below the 38th parallel which the enormous tide of North Korean and Chinese Red troops was able to pierce and hold. We agreed not to send our negotiators by helicopter to the actual site of the talks because the appearance of this remarkable aerial gadget would reflect on the industrial inability of their people to produce similar transportation.

We apparently are willing to forget the fine triumphs of the men who swept all the way north to the Yalu River and—until the Russians sent the Chinese Reds in—took the bloody and expensive steps which might have made Korea a nation instead of two bristling camps which must always be a source of mutual irritation.

Agreement almost has been reached on what would be, if honest men were being dealt with, a true truce. It has been decided that the buffer zone shall be two and a half miles wide. The line of the zone has been set for two-thirds of the way across the peninsula, but we have balked at the demand that it follow the current battle line so as to include the Kaesong area in their zone of influence.

This much seems certain: If it is true, as polls indicate, that the people of this country are so fed up with Communist tactics and arrogance as to want to fight another depleting war and get it over with, it is because so many of us are touched by the terror of the situation in Korea and its terrible implications. Sons, husbands, brothers, relatives and friends of millions of Americans are dying daily during the time when we are sincerely talking peace, and those same millions have come to the frightful empty feeling that even when we get the signed paper the other side will consider it a contemptible nothing.

A Toast To Spareribs!

With a record supply of pork on hand, popular spareribs will be the homemakers' choice for many a dinner these days. The handy thing about spareribs is that they may be cooked so many different ways—you can "boil" them, bake them or roast them. In cooking spareribs, follow these general instructions: Spareribs Cooked in Water—Cut into serving pieces and place in a large pan with boiling water to cover. Season with salt, sliced onion, celery leaves and parsley sprigs. Simmer until tender, about 2 hours. If you're serving the ribs with sauerkraut, you can add this the last 30 minutes of cooking. Roast Spareribs—Roast in a 325°F. oven for 1½ hours, using dressing between sections of ribs, if desired. Braised Spareribs — Place sauerkraut and little hot water in bottom of roasting pan. Place ribs over kraut, cover pan tightly and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 1½ hours. Uncover last half hour.

Court Settles Long Dispute Over Coal Land

In an opinion handed down in Circuit Court by Associate Judge George Henderson, a long drawn out legal struggle over the title to land on Dan's Mountain near Lonaconing which has coal underneath part of it, has been decided.

The action was inaugurated July 6, 1944, when James H. Miller and others filed proceedings in equity claiming that John J. Foote, Arthur Bond and Dakin Moorhouse had illegally mined coal from their property. The bill asked for an injunction and for an accounting.

Testimony Taken In 1945

Testimony was taken in May and again in November of 1945. After due consideration the judges of Circuit Court dismissed the bill of complaint in order that proceedings at law might be brought, and a warrant of resurvey could be returned by a surveyor to be appointed by the court.

In July, 1946, Foote and Bond filed an action in trespass against the Millers and in March, 1947 the Millers brought a similar suit against Foote and Bond. Both claimed damages. A warrant for a resurvey was issued to Samuel T. Walker, who filed his report and plat in October of 1948.

For various reasons, including a change in counsel on one side and the disability of the original executor of Jacob Miller, there were further delays.

In October of this year counsel made their final arguments and submitted the case to court.

The tract in question contained four and one-half acres.

Payment Ordered

Judge Henderson stated in his opinion:

"There is much positive testimony which substantiates the Miller title. And, after a careful study of the rather voluminous testimony, the deeds and plats, I have come to the conclusion the Millers have a good title by adverse possession of the tract."

(Adverse possession is one of the recognized modes of acquiring title to property. It is the continuous open and notorious possession and occupation of real estate under a claim of right.)

As to the damages in the case, Judge Henderson stated: "It was admitted that Dakin Moorhouse, under a lease from Bond and Foote, mined and carried away 9,382 tons of coal. The royalty payable by him on this seems to have been $2,770.58."

This means that Bond and Foote are responsible to the Miller estate for that sum. Under the circumstances the court said no interest will be allowed.

The $2,770.58 must be paid to Bertha Devlin, administrator of the estate of Jacob Miller.

Yukon territory is Canada's most northwesterly province.

Panels at the ends and narrow lancets along the sides provide ventilation. The chapel stands on land donated by Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Scarborough, N. Small Game Season Opens In Allegany County Thursday

Hundreds of Allegany county hunters will trek to the woods Thursday as the small game season opens and a member of the Oldtown Sportsmen's Club brings up the old argument of hunter versus farmer as the shooting time nears.

William L. McKenzie, of Oldtown, who was formerly a deputy game warden, states that if hunters will make an honest effort to get acquainted with the farmer and are willing to make some effort towards farmer-sportsman cooperation they won't have to spend most of the day driving around for a place in which to hunt.

McKenzie said many hunters feel they are getting a "raw deal" after they buy a license to hunt, only to discover the farmers and landowners have posted their property against hunting.

The Oldtown man said if the farmer-sportsman cooperative program can be worked out it will be to the benefit of all concerned. If, for some reason no progress is made on this plan then McKenzie believes small game hunting will cease to exist, except on state-owned land.

McKenzie said 80 percent of small game killed in Maryland is taken on privately-owned land. Many farmers do not hunt at all. They either do not care to hunt or else are too busy with their fall chores, McKenzie added.

Farmers often wish the small game was not on their property, due to the crop losses from these animals. Most farmers will allow hunting on their land if the nimrods will only ask permission, McKenzie pointed out. Most farmers are anxious about the safety of their livestock during the hunting season and it was also pointed out by McKenzie that rarely do hunters offer some of their game to the farmer after a day's hunting.

Should Act Ahead

McKenzie said that many hunters do not follow the best procedure in seeking permission to hunt. Waiting until the season rolls around to attempt to find a good hunting place is not the best idea, he added.

"During the corn planting season many farmers are troubled with crows pulling the corn as it sprouts through the ground. Many of the farmers would welcome the hunter who would kill a few of the crows and hang them around the field to scare other crows. The hunter could also help cement good relations with the farmer by either trapping predatory animals on the farm or else shooting them," McKenzie declared.

It takes consideration on the part of both the farmer and sportsman to make the cooperative plan work, McKenzie said.

For various reasons, including a change in counsel on one side and the disability of the original executor of Jacob Miller, there were further delays.

In October of this year counsel made their final arguments and submitted the case to court.

The tract in question contained four and one-half acres.

Payment Ordered

Judge Henderson stated in his opinion:

"There is much positive testimony which substantiates the Miller title. And, after a careful study of the rather voluminous testimony, the deeds and plats, I have come to the conclusion the Millers have a good title by adverse possession of the tract."

(Adverse possession is one of the recognized modes of acquiring title to property. It is the continuous open and notorious possession and occupation of real estate under a claim of right.)

As to the damages in the case, Judge Henderson stated: "It was admitted that Dakin Moorhouse, under a lease from Bond and Foote, mined and carried away 9,382 tons of coal. The royalty payable by him on this seems to have been $2,770.58."

This means that Bond and Foote are responsible to the Miller estate for that sum. Under the circumstances the court said no interest will be allowed.

The $2,770.58 must be paid to Bertha Devlin, administrator of the estate of Jacob Miller.

WORSHIPERS IN WAYFARER'S CHAPEL, on a knoll in Southern California's Palos Verdes hills, can view mountains, sky and the Pacific ocean without leaving their seats. The little shrine is almost completely enclosed by plate glass. Beautifully planed columns of laminated redwood rise tree-like from native stone foundations and bend like branches into arches that support the roof. Panels at the ends and narrow lancets along the sides provide ventilation. The chapel stands on land donated by Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Scarborough, N. Y., as a memorial to Emmanuel Swedenborg, 18th century scientist and theologian. It was designed by Lloyd Wright.

Small Game Season Opens In Allegany County Thursday

Hundreds of Allegany county hunters will trek to the woods Thursday as the small game season opens and a member of the Oldtown Sportsmen's Club brings up the old argument of hunter versus farmer as the shooting time nears.

William L. McKenzie, of Oldtown, who was formerly a deputy game warden, states that if hunters will make an honest effort to get acquainted with the farmer and are willing to make some effort towards farmer-sportsman cooperation they won't have to spend most of the day driving around for a place in which to hunt.

McKenzie said many hunters feel they are getting a "raw deal" after they buy a license to hunt, only to discover the farmers and landowners have posted their property against hunting.

The Oldtown man said if the farmer-sportsman cooperative program can be worked out it will be to the benefit of all concerned. If, for some reason no progress is made on this plan then McKenzie believes small game hunting will cease to exist, except on state-owned land.

McKenzie said 80 percent of small game killed in Maryland is taken on privately-owned land. Many farmers do not hunt at all. They either do not care to hunt or else are too busy with their fall chores, McKenzie added.

Farmers often wish the small game was not on their property, due to the crop losses from these animals. Most farmers will allow hunting on their land if the nimrods will only ask permission, McKenzie pointed out. Most farmers are anxious about the safety of their livestock during the hunting season and it was also pointed out by McKenzie that rarely do hunters offer some of their game to the farmer after a day's hunting.

Should Act Ahead

McKenzie said that many hunters do not follow the best procedure in seeking permission to hunt. Waiting until the season rolls around to attempt to find a good hunting place is not the best idea, he added.

"During the corn planting season many farmers are troubled with crows pulling the corn as it sprouts through the ground. Many of the farmers would welcome the hunter who would kill a few of the crows and hang them around the field to scare other crows. The hunter could also help cement good relations with the farmer by either trapping predatory animals on the farm or else shooting them," McKenzie declared.

It takes consideration on the part of both the farmer and sportsman to make the cooperative plan work, McKenzie said.

Analysts Term Outlook For Business Good

Few Weak Spots Noted In Survey

Despite a few weak spots at present, business prospects in states of the Fifth District are good, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond analysts believe.

The flagging cotton textile industry is showing signs of improvement, the lumber market is turning firmer, a better level of demand for furniture is developing, construction is expanding, bank loans are moving upward, and employment is nearing record levels, according to a report on business conditions in the latest issue of the bank's Monthly Review.

The Fifth District includes North and South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. Reserve bank economists keep a sharp eye on conditions in the area, and, although their findings are mainly of interest to bankers and businessmen, the reports are available to anybody else who is interested.

These are some of the results of the latest survey:

Employment — Approaching its World War II peak level, due mainly to the demand of Government and the construction industries.

Construction—Contract awards 66 per cent higher in first eight months of this year than in same period last year. Military construction between now and June will amount to $500,000,000, equal to one-third of total construction for all of 1950.

Cotton textiles—Retail sales improving with rise in consumer incomes; better demand at producer level may be forthcoming soon.

Furniture—Manufacturers reduced operations in late summer, but a better level of demand has been noticeable and some improvement is likely.

Lumber—Market firmer in September after six-month decline; military and residential construction should increase demand for some time to come.

Hosiery—Production still lagging in September, but price structure appears to be stable, with considerable volume of new business in prospect.

Bituminous coal — Production ahead of last year; further improvement likely with increased industrial activity in this country and growing export demand.

Dairy Meeting Set Next Week

The University of Maryland will hold its seventh annual Dairy Technology Conference November 13-15 at College Park. Operators and employes of milk and ice cream plants, as well as dairy fieldmen, health officials and sanitarians of Maryland and adjoining areas are invited to attend.

The first day of this conference will be devoted primarily to a discussion of dairy by-products and sanitation problems of the dairy industry. Milk and ice cream problems will be considered on the second day.

The program for the final day will be of chief interest to fieldmen, health department personnel, and dairy sanitarians.

On November 14, participants in the conference will hold a joint dinner meeting with members of the Dairy Technology Society of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Dr. G. M. Trout, professor of dairy manufacturing at Michigan State College, will address this joint meeting. Other outstanding men, with long experience in the field of dairy technology, will be heard as speakers during the three-day conference.

City Police Probe Theft Of Apparel

City detectives are probing the breaking and entering of one of the Cadillac apartments on North Mechanic Street over the weekend after some men's wearing apparel was reported missing.

The intruder climbed over the roof, according to police, and gained entrance by breaking a window and entering the apartment of Ray Kimble. Several neckties and T-shirts were reported stolen.

Team To Be Feted

The Cumberland Lions Club championship Hot-Stove team will be guests at the weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA. Suitable awards will be presented. Several Cubs will also be inducted into the club.

6,000 Farmers May Be Killed In 1951 Crashes

Motor vehicles may kill 6,000 farmers and injure an additional 200,000 in 1951, according to H. E. Curry, vice president and actuary of the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company.

The company insures nearly 2,000,000 automobiles, about two-thirds of which are in rural areas.

Motor vehicle deaths in Maryland totaled 552 last year. Twenty-two of them were farmers. Total farm motor vehicle deaths in 1950 were 6,300, a drop of only three per cent from 1949.

"Driving a car is the most dangerous thing a farmer does," Curry said. "Deaths from this cause overshadows the record of 4,300 farmers killed in occupational accidents, and the 3,900 who lost their lives in home accidents.

Accidental farm deaths totaled 15,500 last year.

Farmers lost nearly 7,000,000 work days in 1950 because of rural motor vehicle accidents, and their medical costs are estimated at more than $14,000,000.

Sideswipes and head-on crashes, Curry said, caused 18 per cent of all rural motoring fatalities. "Some motorists drive too fast for the highways and often find themselves unable to make a curve or turn and still remain in their lane. The result is either a sideswipe or head-on crash."

Twelve per cent of last year's rural motoring deaths, he added, were caused by overturning, and an additional 12 per cent were collisions with pedestrians. There were no reported deaths from mechanical failure or vehicle fires.

Civil Defense Meet Set

Members of the Fire Branch of the Allegany County Civil Defense program will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at City Hall, Alvey Poole, assistant chief of the City Fire Department and liaison officer, announced last night.

Care Would Prevent Most Farm Tractor Accidents

Tractor accidents can be prevented if farmers will use care in their operation, comments Guy W. Gienger, University of Maryland agricultural engineer. Maryland farmers use nearly 30,000 tractors in their farm operations.

According to the records of the National Safety Council the principal causes of tractor accidents are overturning, falling from, or being thrown off the tractor, unguarded power-take-off shields, accidents while cranking, and accidents from fire and fumes.

"The main safety rule for operating tractors in the field is just good common sense," Gienger says.

"You can't afford to gamble the loss of a limb or life by operating without the power take-off shield in place. Cranking a tractor while in gear is another dangerous way to start a day's work. Excessive speed and carelessness in handling tractors around ditches can hurry a trip to the hospital. Jumping off a tractor while in motion is another way to invite an accident."

Here are some additional safety rules for operating tractors:

1. Reduce speed before making a turn or applying brakes.
2. Never ride a draw-bar of tractor or on drawn implements.
3. Always stop power take-off before dismounting from tractor.
4. Never refuel tractor while motor is running or extremely hot.
5. Don't operate a tractor in a closed building or close to flammable materials.
6. Prohibit extra riders.

Michigan State Takes Over No. 1 Spot In Gridiron Poll

Terps Slide To 5th Place Despite Win

Stanford Moves Up To Fourth; Vols, Illinois Run 2, 3

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Michigan State elbowed Tennessee out of the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press football poll today with 55 of 158 first place votes from sports writers and sportscasters.

Humbling Notre Dame, 35-0, in full view of a network television audience, the unbeaten Michigan State eleven ended Tennessee's three-week reign.

The rousing victory over Notre Dame shot Michigan State from fifth to first with a total of 1,316 points. The Spartans led the poll in the first two weeks of the season. Then California took over for a week before Tennessee moved on top.

Stanford Moves Up

Tennessee drew 42 first and a second place total of 1,155 points to beat off a strong challenge by Illinois' Big Ten leaders. Although only 20 voted Illinois first, the experts gave them solid backing in the other brackets for a total of 1,145 points. Both had "breathers" last week, Tennessee winning 60-14 and Illinois 40-13.

Michigan State, Tennessee and Illinois each have won seven straight going into the final stages of the season. Michigan State plays at Indiana Saturday, Tennessee at Mississippi and Illinois at Ohio State.

After the big three came the Stanford Indians with their eight-game win spree, moving into fourth place with 951 points on the strength of its triumph over Southern California 27-20.

Maryland, 40-21 winners over non-winning Navy, dropped two pegs to fifth on its seventh straight win. Princeton, unbeaten Ivy League leader with a 7-0, record, also skidded to sixth despite its 54-13 success at Harvard.

Georgia Tech (7-0-1) moved up to seventh after downing V. M. I., 34-7, and Wisconsin (5-1-1) advanced to eighth despite a rugged struggle with Pennsylvania before winning by 16-7.

Kentucky Makes Top Ten

Kentucky (6-3) whirling toward its important Nov. 24 game with Tennessee, made the top 10 grade by whipping Tulane, 37-0, to take ninth place.

Baylor's 18-6 win over Texas after its defeat by Texas Christian, restored the Bears (5-1-1) to tenth place.

Missing from last week's top 10 are sixth-place Southern California, which dipped to 11th after losing to Stanford, and Texas, which dropped to 15th on its defeat by Baylor.

Notre Dame, moving up fast in recent weeks, fell into the also ran class as Frank Leahy suffered the worst drubbing of his coaching career.

Ronnie Sisk Third Allegany Player Of Week

Sparks Alco Victory Over Elkins Eleven

Ronnie Sisk's brilliant passing, running and field generalship for Allegany in the Campers' 28-0 victory over Elkins Saturday earned him the tenth K of C Player of the Week award this season.

Sisk actually is the ninth athlete to capture the coveted title as Richard Beard of Fort Hill twice has been named. He also is the third Allegany player to be so honored. Other Alco luminaries are Gene Horton and Joe Hager.

Ronnie threw two touchdown passes and set up a third with his tosses as Allegany ran roughshod over a strong Elkins eleven. He scored another time himself when he bulled his way over the goal from eight yards away with several would-be tacklers hanging on.

Giving probably his most spirited performance in his career at Allegany Sisk was outstanding among several noteworthy performances in games at the local stadium last weekend.

Also given consideration was the sparkling pass receiving and defensive play of Sisk's teammate, Junior Eversole, who scored twice against Elkins. In Friday's tilt between LaSalle and Ridgeley, Halfback Bobby Christ and Quarterback Marty Mullaney of the Explorers were rated tops in LaSalle's 31-7 triumph.

Fort Hill's Sentinels lead the parade of stars with five selections while Allegany has three and LaSalle two. No Ridgeley players have been selected, marking the first time since the award began that one of the West Virginians has not been considered. Ridgeley closed out one of its most dismal seasons with its loss to LaSalle.

Pimlico Special Set For Friday

12 Horses Entered In $15,000 Feature

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Maryland Jockey Club counted 12 possible thoroughbred noses today for its select $15,000 Pimlico Special Friday.

There still are enough for a formidable field even though Counterpoint, the probable champion of 1951, and Hill Prince have been counted out of the mile and three sixteenths race.

The most probable starting lineup includes Bedford Stable's Call Over, C. T. Chenery's Bryan G, Isidor Bieber's Palestinian, Gustave Ring's Lone Eagle, Mrs. E. du Pont Weir's Royal Governor, Rokeby Stable's County Delight and Hasty House Farm's Oil Capitol.

Also apt to accept their invitations are Brookmeade's Bold, C. B. Bohn's Blue Hills, Greentree's Hall of Fame or One Hitter, and Joe Brown's Thelma Berger.

The dozen or so probables come from a list of 29 horses that earned invitations to the special by winning one or more of 43 designated stakes during the year.

In addition to the invitation angle, the special is unique in that the winner takes all the money and the fans may bet to win only.

Beall finally broke the ice in the final period with Orr going over on a 31 yard run. Orr also scored the extra point for the losers.

Fort Hill chalked up 12 first downs to Beall's 5 and completed three of six passes. Beall threw two aerials with neither completed and one intercepted.

More Study, Clinics Needed To Bring Officiating To Top

Prof. Semon Addresses Football Association

"Officials must know the techniques, study more and attend clinics or we'll never have top officiating," Prof. John Semon told the Potomac Valley Football Officials and Coaches Association last night at the annual banquet in Old Homestead Hotel in Burlington.

Semon, assistant professor in the school of physical education and athletics at West Virginia was the principal speaker at the dinner which was attended by 29 sports notables and coaches.

Take Job Seriously

The official must take his job seriously because it is a serious business, the speaker said, recommending that the West Virginia High School Athletic Association make its requirements for officiating position much stiffer.

"We need better men—men who understands the boy and not men who just put in their time," Semon went on. Medical examinations should be compulsory the speaker suggested, adding that all officials should be in good condition physically.

Semon prescribed better supervision of crowds at athletic games, also, noting too many games often get out of hand. Much of the blame, he said, rests on school administrators if athletics are to be classified as educational activity. He pointed out that much of the bad conduct on the field is not tolerated inside school buildings.

Administrators must find a place in the football picture, he declared, stressing that a coach should be a teacher—a teacher as important as any member of the faculty.

A great need for officials is seen now, Semon asserted, and in conclusion he said associations must create a desire among young fellows to get into officiating work.

29 Attend Affair

Attending the affair were John Blough, Cumberland official; Jonathan Paugh, Moorefield High coach; Joe Hoopengardner, Beall High coach; Ralph Poling, Ridgeley High coach; Ross W. Prysock, Keyser newspaperman; Mike Wenner, Jesse Riggleman, Petersburg High coach; Glenn R. Hawkins, West Virginia School for Deaf coach; John McVicker, Fort Hill; Estel Miers and Tommy Heslit, Front Royal, Va., coaches; Dana Lough, Potomac State coach; Joe Stanislawczyk, official; John Barger, Keyser; John J. Cavanaugh, Fort Hill coach and official; Mal Campbell, Radio Station WCUM, Cumberland; Clifton Van Roby, Radio Station WTBO, Cumberland; John Shelton, Keyser official; Dan Staley; Charles Bolyard, official; Brother Joseph athletic moderator at LaSalle High School; Richard McElwee, Romney high coach; Eddie Diehl, Cumberland; James Gaffney, Cumberland official; Hubert Feeney, Cumberland; John Angellatta, Cumberland official; James Fahey, Cumberland official and C. V. Burns, Cumberland NEWS.

James Gaffney Elected Head Of Grid Association

James Gaffney, former star athlete at Allegany High School, head coach at LaSalle High and professional gridder with the Washington Redskins, was elected president of the Potomac Valley Conference Football Officials and Coaches Association last night at their annual banquet at Burlington.

Hubert Feeney, Cumberland, was elected secretary treasurer. Gaffney will appoint a vice president of the group next spring.

Sports Notes

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Fort Hill will be seeing a lot of Blue and White in the next two weeks before the football season ends. . . .Both Westminster and Allegany, final two foes on the Sentinels' schedule, sport Blue and White colors. . . .Principal Gerald E. Richter of Westminster reported his school had recently completed repairs on the athletic field to insure better drainage, then had rain on three successive game nights this season. . . .The heavy rainfall which postponed Fort Hill's contest was followed by snow the following day and left several inches of water on the field.

Allegany High's rebounding eleven was thoroughly scouted during its final three games by Fort Hill and the Sentinel scouts saw the Alco team flash its best form of the year during those contests.

Ronnie Sisk's passing, which had been rather dormant early in the season, showed unmistakable signs of being Allegany's most potent weapon again in the Campers last three tilts. . . .Ronnie passed for the tying touchdown against Martinsburg in the final seconds of play, tossed a 31-yard scoring heave in the LaSalle fray, and twice hit teammate Junior Eversole with scoring aerials in Allegany's stunning 28-0 walloping of a strong Elkins eleven.

Earlier in the year after seeing one of Allegany's dismal showings we predicted the Campers would have trouble staying above the .500 level. . . .They've already made that statement a faux pas. . . .The switch by Coach Bob Pence putting little Eddie Baldwin at fullback seems to have made the tumblers fall into place in Allegany's combination . . . .Although Eddie hasn't scored much and his light weight (140 pounds) keeps him from being a top-notch blocker, his fight and determination and 100 per cent team spirit have been contributing factors to his advance to the first string. . . .And Allegany has been winning since he got the job.

Still Allegany doesn't have the smooth polish shown by Fort Hill and Pence faces a lot of hard work in the next 10 days in preparation for the annual Turkey Day classic.

Carter Is Favored To Defeat Aragon

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP)—The oddsmakers quoted Champion Jimmy Carter at 10-8 today to rearrange the Grecian countenance of Art Aragon in their 15-round lightweight title scrap Wednesday night at the Olympic Auditorium.

The tempestuous Aragon, a curly-topped lad who hits like a swig of mountain dew, finished his strenuous drills today and will henceforth confine himself to setting up exercises in an effort to ward off excess poundage.

The methodical Carter, defending his crown for the first time since he won it from Ike Williams last May, wound up his ring work yesterday. He has no weight problem and figures to come in a fraction under the 135-pound lightweight limit.

Six Rec League Champions To Be Honored With Banquet

David Kauffman To Be Toastmaster

Champions in six city recreation softball and basketball leagues will be honored at an All-Sports banquet tomorrow night at the Loyal Order of Moose home, Beall street.

David Kauffman, local attorney, will be toastmaster of the affair which will get underway at 6:30 o'clock and is being sponsored by the City Recreation Department which was in charge of the leagues.

Edmund F. Hoey, rec department head, said last night at least 150 persons are expected to attend the affair and that reservations to the banquet will be accepted in the rec department office, City Hall building, until noon today.

Guests at the banquet besides the winning teams will be the Mayor and City Council, local high school coaches and the City Recreation Board, Hoey added.

To be honored are the following champions:

Hercules Powder Company, Industrial Rec League softball titlists; Cunningham Grocery, City Rec League softball champions for 1950 and 1951; Tri-State Cleaners, High School Rec League softball winners; Lapp's Plumbers, Class A Recreation Basketball League winners; Morris Wholesalers, Class B Recreation Basketball League champs; and Merrill Brothers, High School Recreation basketball League title holders. All members of the championship teams have been invited to the dinner in their honor.

In previous years separate banquets were held each year for each individual winner, Hoey went on, but beginning this year the annual banquets will be held honoring all winning teams.

The Women of the Moose will serve the dinner.

Low Man Pays—The Blood Bank

CLARINDA, Ia., Nov. 12 (AP)—There's a new column marked on the scoring sheets for Clarinda bowlers. It deals with blood donations for the armed forces.

The bowlers, to be sure there will be plenty of blood donors when the Red Cross blood bank is there Nov. 20, devised this plan:

The five low scorers in each bowling league this week will be asked to sign a donor card for the blood bank. Bowling association officials said plenty of winners are expected to sign up for donations, too.

Minor Leagues Merger Planned

Seek Strong Class A Midwestern Circuit

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Tom Halligan of the Central Baseball League said today that a merger of three midwestern minor leagues was contemplated for next season.

The Class A Central League discussed merging with the Class D Ohio-Indiana League and the Class S Mid-Atlantic League at its fall meeting today in Detroit.

"We're aiming at a strong Class A league of eight teams," Halligan said. "We may also be able to form a Class B or C league from among the smaller cities in the three leagues."

"However, no concrete moves can be made until the minor league meeting in Columbus in December (Dec. 4-5-6-7)," he said. "The merger is merely in the talking stage now."

Halligan said Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, all from Michigan, and Dayton, O., were interested in a Class A league next season. Charleston, W. Va., preferred Class B and Muskegon Class C, said Halligan.

The Central League survived its third season last summer, but not without difficulty. At one time both the Grand Rapids and Flint franchises appeared to be ready for sale.

Since the season's close the Saginaw club's owners filed a petition in bankruptcy and a receiver was appointed. Meanwhile the Cincinnati Reds announced they would prefer to support the Charleston, W. Va., Club in a Class B league rather than Class A.

Boudreau Favors Cleveland In 1952

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—New Manager Lou Boudreau of the Boston Red Sox worked an oratorical double-play at a football luncheon today and tossed out these remarks:

1. He personally favors elevation of the Pacific Coast League in whole or such towns as Los Angeles and San Francisco, to major league status:

2. He believes he will be on the active player list next season;

3. He would not swap Ted Williams for ace pitcher Ned Garver of the St. Louis Browns; and

4. He likes the Cleveland Indians to win the 1952 American League flag.

Marciano Is Voted Oct. Hickok Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—(AP)—Rocky Marciano's sensational knockout of Joe Louis today earned the undefeated Brockton, Mass., belter the October award in the Hickok professional athlete of the year poll.

Marciano barely nosed out Bobby Thomson, whose last inning homer won the National League pennant for the New York Giants. Rocky received 41 first place votes and a point total of 192 from sports writers on the panel to edge out Thomson by 23 points. Thomson garnered 169 points and 34 first placers.

Phil Rizzuto, star of the New York Yankees world series triumph, was third with 96 points. Jockey Willie Shoemaker was fourth with 95 points, followed by the Yankees' Gil McDougald (80), and Ed Lopat (62), and the St. Louis Cards' Stan Musial (41).

High School Gridder Succumbs To Injuries

More Study, Clinics Needed To Bring Officiating To Top

Prof. Semon Addresses Football Association

"Officials must know the techniques, study more and attend clinics or we'll never have top officiating," Prof. John Semon told the Potomac Valley Football Officials and Coaches Association last night at the annual banquet in Old Homestead Hotel in Burlington.

Semon, assistant professor in the school of physical education and athletics at West Virginia was the principal speaker at the dinner which was attended by 29 sports notables and coaches.

Take Job Seriously

The official must take his job seriously because it is a serious business, the speaker said, recommending that the West Virginia High School Athletic Association make its requirements for officiating position much stiffer.

"We need better men—men who understands the boy and not men who just put in their time," Semon went on. Medical examinations should be compulsory the speaker suggested, adding that all officials should be in good condition physically.

Semon prescribed better supervision of crowds at athletic games, also, noting too many games often get out of hand. Much of the blame, he said, rests on school administrators if athletics are to be classified as educational activity. He pointed out that much of the bad conduct on the field is not tolerated inside school buildings.

Administrators must find a place in the football picture, he declared, stressing that a coach should be a teacher—a teacher as important as any member of the faculty.

A great need for officials is seen now, Semon asserted, and in conclusion he said associations must create a desire among young fellows to get into officiating work.

29 Attend Affair

Attending the affair were John Blough, Cumberland official; Jonathan Paugh, Moorefield High coach; Joe Hoopengardner, Beall High coach; Ralph Poling, Ridgeley High coach; Ross W. Prysock, Keyser newspaperman; Mike Wenner, Jesse Riggleman, Petersburg High coach; Glenn R. Hawkins, West Virginia School for Deaf coach; John McVicker, Fort Hill; Estel Miers and Tommy Heslit, Front Royal, Va., coaches; Dana Lough, Potomac State coach; Joe Stanislawczyk, official; John Barger, Keyser; John J. Cavanaugh, Fort Hill coach and official; Mal Campbell, Radio Station WCUM, Cumberland; Clifton Van Roby, Radio Station WTBO, Cumberland; John Shelton, Keyser official; Dan Staley; Charles Bolyard, official; Brother Joseph athletic moderator at LaSalle High School; Richard McElwee, Romney high coach; Eddie Diehl, Cumberland; James Gaffney, Cumberland official; Hubert Feeney, Cumberland; John Angellatta, Cumberland official; James Fahey, Cumberland official and C. V. Burns, Cumberland NEWS.

James Gaffney Elected Head Of Grid Association

James Gaffney, former star athlete at Allegany High School, head coach at LaSalle High and professional gridder with the Washington Redskins, was elected president of the Potomac Valley Conference Football Officials and Coaches Association last night at their annual banquet at Burlington.

Hubert Feeney, Cumberland, was elected secretary treasurer. Gaffney will appoint a vice president of the group next spring.

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Fort Hill will be seeing a lot of Blue and White in the next two weeks before the football season ends. . . .Both Westminster and Allegany, final two foes on the Sentinels' schedule, sport Blue and White colors. . . .Principal Gerald E. Richter of Westminster reported his school had recently completed repairs on the athletic field to insure better drainage, then had rain on three successive game nights this season. . . .The heavy rainfall which postponed Fort Hill's contest was followed by snow the following day and left several inches of water on the field.

Allegany High's rebounding eleven was thoroughly scouted during its final three games by Fort Hill and the Sentinel scouts saw the Alco team flash its best form of the year during those contests.

Ronnie Sisk's passing, which had been rather dormant early in the season, showed unmistakable signs of being Allegany's most potent weapon again in the Campers last three tilts. . . .Ronnie passed for the tying touchdown against Martinsburg in the final seconds of play, tossed a 31-yard scoring heave in the LaSalle fray, and twice hit teammate Junior Eversole with scoring aerials in Allegany's stunning 28-0 walloping of a strong Elkins eleven.

Earlier in the year after seeing one of Allegany's dismal showings we predicted the Campers would have trouble staying above the .500 level. . . .They've already made that statement a faux pas. . . .The switch by Coach Bob Pence putting little Eddie Baldwin at fullback seems to have made the tumblers fall into place in Allegany's combination . . . .Although Eddie hasn't scored much and his light weight (140 pounds) keeps him from being a top-notch blocker, his fight and determination and 100 per cent team spirit have been contributing factors to his advance to the first string. . . .And Allegany has been winning since he got the job.

Still Allegany doesn't have the smooth polish shown by Fort Hill and Pence faces a lot of hard work in the next 10 days in preparation for the annual Turkey Day classic.

Carter Is Favored To Defeat Aragon

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP)—The oddsmakers quoted Champion Jimmy Carter at 10-8 today to rearrange the Grecian countenance of Art Aragon in their 15-round lightweight title scrap Wednesday night at the Olympic Auditorium.

The tempestuous Aragon, a curly-topped lad who hits like a swig of mountain dew, finished his strenuous drills today and will henceforth confine himself to setting up exercises in an effort to ward off excess poundage.

The methodical Carter, defending his crown for the first time since he won it from Ike Williams last May, wound up his ring work yesterday. He has no weight problem and figures to come in a fraction under the 135-pound lightweight limit.

Six Rec League Champions To Be Honored With Banquet

David Kauffman To Be Toastmaster

Champions in six city recreation softball and basketball leagues will be honored at an All-Sports banquet tomorrow night at the Loyal Order of Moose home, Beall street.

David Kauffman, local attorney, will be toastmaster of the affair which will get underway at 6:30 o'clock and is being sponsored by the City Recreation Department which was in charge of the leagues.

Edmund F. Hoey, rec department head, said last night at least 150 persons are expected to attend the affair and that reservations to the banquet will be accepted in the rec department office, City Hall building, until noon today.

Guests at the banquet besides the winning teams will be the Mayor and City Council, local high school coaches and the City Recreation Board, Hoey added.

To be honored are the following champions:

Hercules Powder Company, Industrial Rec League softball titlists; Cunningham Grocery, City Rec League softball champions for 1950 and 1951; Tri-State Cleaners, High School Rec League softball winners; Lapp's Plumbers, Class A Recreation Basketball League winners; Morris Wholesalers, Class B Recreation Basketball League champs; and Merrill Brothers, High School Recreation basketball League title holders. All members of the championship teams have been invited to the dinner in their honor.

In previous years separate banquets were held each year for each individual winner, Hoey went on, but beginning this year the annual banquets will be held honoring all winning teams.

The Women of the Moose will serve the dinner.

Low Man Pays—The Blood Bank

CLARINDA, Ia., Nov. 12 (AP)—There's a new column marked on the scoring sheets for Clarinda bowlers. It deals with blood donations for the armed forces.

The bowlers, to be sure there will be plenty of blood donors when the Red Cross blood bank is there Nov. 20, devised this plan:

The five low scorers in each bowling league this week will be asked to sign a donor card for the blood bank. Bowling association officials said plenty of winners are expected to sign up for donations, too.

Minor Leagues Merger Planned

Seek Strong Class A Midwestern Circuit

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Tom Halligan of the Central Baseball League said today that a merger of three midwestern minor leagues was contemplated for next season.

The Class A Central League discussed merging with the Class D Ohio-Indiana League and the Class S Mid-Atlantic League at its fall meeting today in Detroit.

"We're aiming at a strong Class A league of eight teams," Halligan said. "We may also be able to form a Class B or C league from among the smaller cities in the three leagues."

"However, no concrete moves can be made until the minor league meeting in Columbus in December (Dec. 4-5-6-7)," he said. "The merger is merely in the talking stage now."

Halligan said Flint, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, all from Michigan, and Dayton, O., were interested in a Class A league next season. Charleston, W. Va., preferred Class B and Muskegon Class C, said Halligan.

The Central League survived its third season last summer, but not without difficulty. At one time both the Grand Rapids and Flint franchises appeared to be ready for sale.

Since the season's close the Saginaw club's owners filed a petition in bankruptcy and a receiver was appointed. Meanwhile the Cincinnati Reds announced they would prefer to support the Charleston, W. Va., Club in a Class B league rather than Class A.

Boudreau Favors Cleveland In 1952

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—New Manager Lou Boudreau of the Boston Red Sox worked an oratorical double-play at a football luncheon today and tossed out these remarks:

1. He personally favors elevation of the Pacific Coast League in whole or such towns as Los Angeles and San Francisco, to major league status:

2. He believes he will be on the active player list next season;

3. He would not swap Ted Williams for ace pitcher Ned Garver of the St. Louis Browns; and

4. He likes the Cleveland Indians to win the 1952 American League flag.

Marciano Is Voted Oct. Hickok Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—(AP)—Rocky Marciano's sensational knockout of Joe Louis today earned the undefeated Brockton, Mass., belter the October award in the Hickok professional athlete of the year poll.

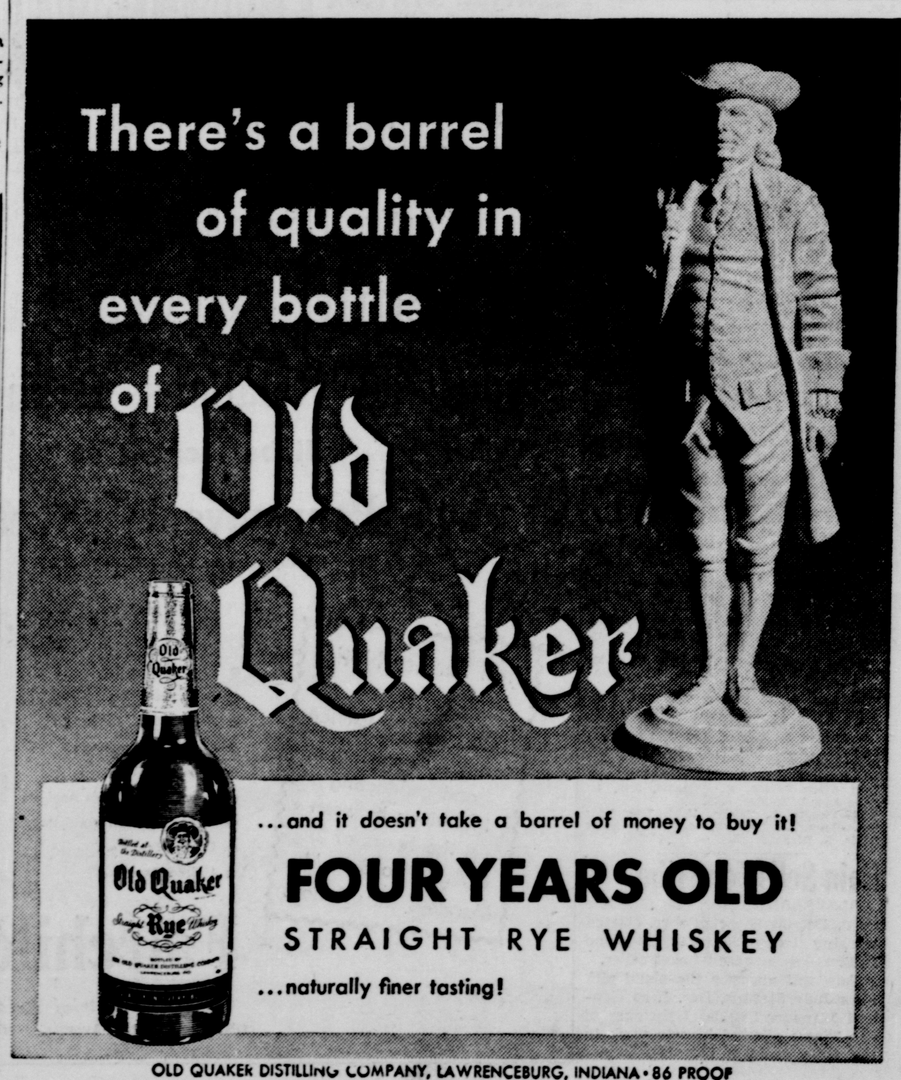
Marciano barely nosed out Bobby Thomson, whose last inning homer won the National League pennant for the New York Giants. Rocky received 41 first place votes and a point total of 192 from sports writers on the panel to edge out Thomson by 23 points. Thomson garnered 169 points and 34 first placers.

Phil Rizzuto, star of the New York Yankees world series triumph, was third with 96 points. Jockey Willie Shoemaker was fourth with 95 points, followed by the Yankees' Gil McDougald (80), and Ed Lopat (62), and the St. Louis Cards' Stan Musial (41).

High School Gridder Succumbs To Injuries

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 12 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old David Cecil died at Christ Hospital today of injuries suffered in a high school football game.

The youngster was a reserve center on the Highlands High School (Ky) football squad. He had been in the game for only about seven or eight plays last Friday night when injured in a pileup in the third quarter.



Rose Jet Loses Pimlico Stakes

No Score Registers 2¼-Length Victory

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—The nation's leading 2-year-old filly went down to defeat here today when George D. Widener's No Score raced to a handy score in the $15,000-added Marguerite Stakes.

Rose Jet, Maine Chance Farm's ranking filly, was only third in the mile and a sixteenth race, finishing three lengths behind Greentree Stable's Knot Hole, the runner-up.

No Score, ridden by Ovie Scurlock, paid $24.60 straight while gaining the first stakes victory of her career. The filly's only previous win had been gained over maiden company at Saratoga, but today she picked up a check for $29,640 in the all-filly race.

Rose Jet, a 2-to-5 favorite with the Armistice Day crowd of 17,710 fans, went to the front as expected but she was unable to open her usual early lead because Walter A. Edgar's Banta stayed right with her.

The pair, never more than a half-length apart, drew out seven lengths in front of the third horse, and, rounding the last turn, Banta actually got her nose in front. But neither Banta nor Rose Jet could maintain their rapid early pace.

The field swept in on them in early stretch, and No Score pulled clear to register a handy 2¼-length score. Knot Hole, who had come from last place, was no match for the winner but was easily second over the favorite.

Tea-Maker Takes Jamaica Feature

JAMAICA, L. I., N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—F. Ambrose Clarks Tea-Maker closed with a rush in the stretch to win the Autumn Day Handicap before a surprising Armistice Day turnout of 38,708 fans at Jamaica race track today.

The 8-year-old gelded son of Only One-Tea Leaves, ridden by Gerald Porch, scored by a half length over Greentree Stables Guillotine, with Woolford Farms Delegate third another three quarters of a length back.

C. T. Chenerys Bryan G., who had smashed the track record at a mile and an eighth in winning the Westchester Handicap in his previous start, was a close fourth, a head back of Delegate.

Rose Jet Loses Pimlico Stakes

No Score Registers 2¼-Length Victory

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—The nation's leading 2-year-old filly went down to defeat here today when George D. Widener's No Score raced to a handy score in the $15,000-added Marguerite Stakes.

Rose Jet, Maine Chance Farm's ranking filly, was only third in the mile and a sixteenth race, finishing three lengths behind Greentree Stable's Knot Hole, the runner-up.

No Score, ridden by Ovie Scurlock, paid $24.60 straight while gaining the first stakes victory of her career. The filly's only previous win had been gained over maiden company at Saratoga, but today she picked up a check for $29,640 in the all-filly race.

Rose Jet, a 2-to-5 favorite with the Armistice Day crowd of 17,710 fans, went to the front as expected but she was unable to open her usual early lead because Walter A. Edgar's Banta stayed right with her.

The pair, never more than a half-length apart, drew out seven lengths in front of the third horse, and, rounding the last turn, Banta actually got her nose in front. But neither Banta nor Rose Jet could maintain their rapid early pace.

The field swept in on them in early stretch, and No Score pulled clear to register a handy 2¼-length score. Knot Hole, who had come from last place, was no match for the winner but was easily second over the favorite.

Tea-Maker Takes Jamaica Feature

JAMAICA, L. I., N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—F. Ambrose Clarks Tea-Maker closed with a rush in the stretch to win the Autumn Day Handicap before a surprising Armistice Day turnout of 38,708 fans at Jamaica race track today.

The 8-year-old gelded son of Only One-Tea Leaves, ridden by Gerald Porch, scored by a half length over Greentree Stables Guillotine, with Woolford Farms Delegate third another three quarters of a length back.

C. T. Chenerys Bryan G., who had smashed the track record at a mile and an eighth in winning the Westchester Handicap in his previous start, was a close fourth, a head back of Delegate.

A HOST of rosy-lipped cherubs, whose wide eyes and hi-jinks indicate they love their work, will give Santa Claus a lot of help this Christmas. The excited little angels on Christmas cards are busy lighting candlesticks that are almost out of their reach, decorating Christmas trees, hanging holly wreaths on front doors, or popping up out of gift boxes. When the first American Christmas card was published back in 1875, according to the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, it generally was supposed that Santa's helpers were tiny elves. This year's greeting cards say it isn't so!

Mineral School Board Studies Parking Problem

Temporary Loading Site Is Selected

KEYSER, W. Va.—H. L. Idleman, county superintendent of Mineral County Schools, and Richard E. Romig and James R. Fuller, members of the board, met with Mayor Chester J. Compton, Keyser, Sunday to discuss unloading of school buses, since Mineral Street has been made a one-way thoroughfare.

Since a special meeting of the city council Thursday, "no parking" and one-way traffic was discussed the Board of Education has been trying to find a solution for unloading buses for the Keyser High and Elementary schools.

There are nine buses carrying students to the Keyser schools from rural areas, and under a plan worked out at the council meeting, buses were to be parked on St. Cloud Street which would mean students would have to cross Mineral Street to get into the schools.

Because of the hazard for students crossing a heavily traveled thoroughfare, the board decided a change must be made and asked the mayor for a meeting.

Due to illness of the mayor, the meeting was set for his home. The mayor received the board members and it was agreed that St. Cloud Street would be eliminated as a bus parking point because of the danger, and East Piedmont Street, in front of the High school, will be used temporarily for loading and unloading buses.

If Mineral Street is eventually widened this might provide a solution to the problem. There was a thought that School Street and School Alley might be used, but this would be costly, as the long buses cannot enter School Alley from Main Street because of its narrow entrance, and due to the narrow junction with School Street, the buses cannot make the turn entering in the opposite direction.

Mineral School Board Studies Parking Problem

Temporary Loading Site Is Selected

KEYSER, W. Va.—H. L. Idleman, county superintendent of Mineral County Schools, and Richard E. Romig and James R. Fuller, members of the board, met with Mayor Chester J. Compton, Keyser, Sunday to discuss unloading of school buses, since Mineral Street has been made a one-way thoroughfare.

Since a special meeting of the city council Thursday, "no parking" and one-way traffic was discussed the Board of Education has been trying to find a solution for unloading buses for the Keyser High and Elementary schools.

There are nine buses carrying students to the Keyser schools from rural areas, and under a plan worked out at the council meeting, buses were to be parked on St. Cloud Street which would mean students would have to cross Mineral Street to get into the schools.

Because of the hazard for students crossing a heavily traveled thoroughfare, the board decided a change must be made and asked the mayor for a meeting.

Due to illness of the mayor, the meeting was set for his home. The mayor received the board members and it was agreed that St. Cloud Street would be eliminated as a bus parking point because of the danger, and East Piedmont Street, in front of the High school, will be used temporarily for loading and unloading buses.

If Mineral Street is eventually widened this might provide a solution to the problem. There was a thought that School Street and School Alley might be used, but this would be costly, as the long buses cannot enter School Alley from Main Street because of its narrow entrance, and due to the narrow junction with School Street, the buses cannot make the turn entering in the opposite direction.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12—(INS)—Big news from Republic Studios. Herbert (Papa) Yates has bought "Jubilee Trail," the novel by Gwen Bristow, which was on the best seller list for months and was a 1950 Literary Guild selection.

Maureen O'Hara

The price paid is in six figures, much more than this studio usually spends for any story.

Laid in the early California days when the trail between California and Santa Fe, New Mexico, was being blazed and California was still under Mexican rule, there is much adventure in this novel.

Popular John Wayne, winner of so many boxoffice polls, is the star and Papa Yates will offer the woman's role to Maureen O'Hara. She and John were teamed in "The Quiet Man," made in Ireland.

• — • — •

In Doris Day's next picture for Warners she'll play the wife of Steve Cochran in "Big League," a baseball story.

Jack Warner bought the life story of Grover Cleveland Alexander, famed baseball player, as told in a book called "Alex The Great" by Seelig Lester and Mervyn Gerard. Steve will do the honors as Alexander, with Doris as his ever loving spouse. She won't sing, and we'll miss that.

• — • — •

I'm really sad that Rosalind Russell, one of my best friends, will not be home for months. But I'm glad that things are happening so wonderfully for her.

Irene Selznick asked Roz to take her play, "Bell, Book And Candle," to London, but since Roz is committed to make "Never Wave At A WAC" in April, she couldn't accept Irene's offer. However, she'll take the Selznick play on tour, playing the key cities—Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia. An English actor, Dennis Price, will come over from London to play opposite her.

Chatter in Hollywood:

The way things look with Zsa Zsa Gabor and George Sanders it will take a lot of explaining before they can straighten out their troubles and get back together.

Zsa Zsa says it's more than the broadcast on Tallulah Bankhead's show Sunday before last that's responsible for their separation. There are a lot of other things such as George keeping his own apartment. However, she says she still loves George and he telephones her every day.

• — • — •

Joan Davis and Danny Ellman are VeddaVedda thataway again.

Jean Pierre Aumont, now in New York with his little daughter, Maria, comes to Hollywood December 1 to discuss movie deals. He is much saddened by the death of his wife, Maria Montez.

Mrs. John Huston is back from England where she went to see her husband. Looks like John plans to stay aboard for a long time, so Ricky will commute.

Mrs. Burt Lancaster became so homesick for her little baby when she saw his photographs that she is returning immediately. Burt will remain abroad until December 1.

Diane, the knit queen, wore one of her own creations, a knitted evening gown trimmed in mink, at a premiere. That's something I am sorry to have missed.

Gloria Gordon, teen-age daughter of MGM Producer Leon Gordon, has signed a contract with 20th, a rival studio.

People in the cocktail room at the Cinegrill weren't seeing a pink elephant, but they were seeing a pink poodle. Diane Dearborn, the French singer, had her poodle dyed the exact color of her dress. She was with Steve Cochran, but he was completely overlooked in the excitement over the poodle!

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Americans Win Building Contract

SINGAPORE (AP) — The steel framework of Malaya's tallest building—the Asia Insurance Company's skyscraper here—is to be erected by American labor at half the price quoted by local labor.

Ng Keng Sieng, Chinese architect of the 18-story structure, said he tried to get local labor, "but there were not the skilled men to do the job.

"The framework will be 270 feet high and men need strong nerves and great know-how to work riveting machines on narrow girders at that height," he added.

The Americans have contracted to finish the steel work in 110 days.

Tracks Unfaithful Spouse From Air

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(AP)— A local amateur pilot insisted it was no flight of fancy that had him up in the air.

He testified that he suspected his wife of going with another man and followed her in an airplane. From 600 feet up, said the amateur pilot, he saw his wife leave work and enter a car with another man.

When he got both feet on the ground, he admitted, he hit her. Judge Deaderick Moon fined him $2 and court costs on an assault and battery charge.

New Window Is Discovered In Milky Way

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW HAVEN—(AP)—Discovery of a new window in the Milky Way, revealing 100 milky ways never seen before, was announced today.

The window is a clear patch in the obscuring dust clouds or cosmic smog along the Milky Way. It lets telescopes peek through to see a new part of the universe.

The window is kind of dirty, like a half-open window, Dr. Harlow Shapley, famed astronomer of Harvard College Observatory, reported to the National Academy of Sciences, meeting here at Yale.

It's located near the Southern Cross, in the constellation Centaurus, and so isn't visible in the northern hemisphere. It's the third such window to be found.

Dr. Shapley showed a photograph, taken through the window, of 100 new galaxies or star families totalling billions of stars. Some are pinwheel-shaped, like our own Milky Way. Some are hundreds of millions of light years away. A light year is the distance light travels in a year at 186,000 miles per second.

Studies of stars visible through the window will tell us more about the size and shape of our Milky Way, and where the sun and earth are located in the gigantic pinwheel.

The clues come from observing variable stars, ones that regularly grow brighter and dimmer. They can help show how far out in space the milky way reaches. It's known that our sun and earth are near the rim, about 30,000 light years from the center of the Milky Way.

Sir Flinders Petrie, famed English Egyptologist, discovered the long-lost city of Naucratis in 1885.

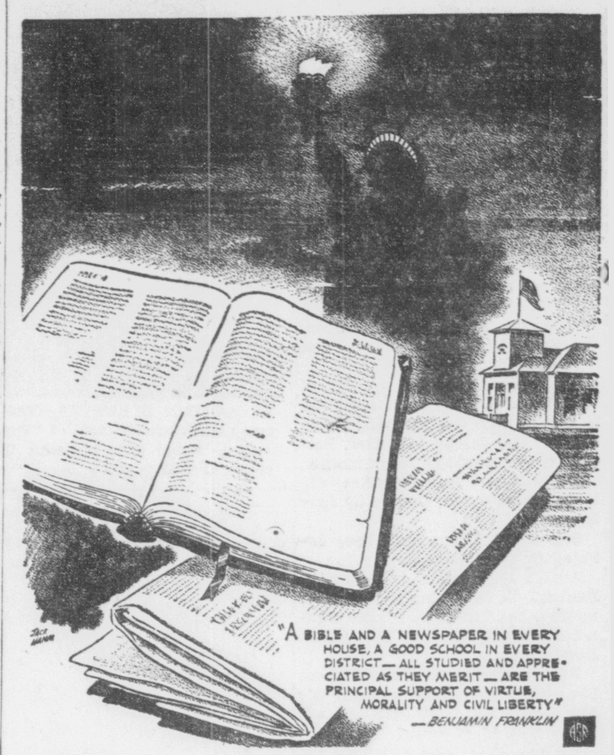
That The Light May Continue To Burn



Not only is the Bible breaking all previous records as the world's best seller, but there is more reading of the Bible than ever before in our day, according to officers of the American Bible Society. The Society is sponsoring a worldwide reading of the Bible between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Announcing as a theme that Bible reading is "The Way Out of the Dark" for nations and individuals, a committee of distinguished Americans of which President Truman is honorary chairman is supporting the movement. A list of the greatest selections of the Bible has been prepared for daily reading in some forty countries.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Crooner Crosby Finances Tape Television Research

By JAMES R. BACON

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Research financed by the golden voice of Bing Crosby is at work today on taped television — a method of recording pictures on magnetic tape.

A lazy way of TV programming, Hollywood sees the new invention as the thing that could lure Bing himself into television.

The method is similar to the tape recording of radio shows that now allows Bing more freedom to fish and golf and otherwise lead the life of Crosby.

Engineers of the Crosby Enterprises estimate that another six months will see commercial use of the process which, they say, will equal live television.

This reporter witnessed a demonstration in which an old movie — of poor quality — was received in the Crosby lab on a standard television set. The telecast was recorded on the magnetic tape and the tape was then fed through the TV receiver.

LUCK IS OF MANY KINDS

Not the least of these is managing to interpret your partner's bids accurately and having him so interpret yours. Sometimes it is none too easy to tell just what message will be conveyed by a certain bid of your own, or what meaning you should attach to one of his.

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♣

It was fortunate for South that his partner passed the 5-Clubs. North read the 3-Spades after two bids of clubs as showing at least six cards in the minor and four in the major, even as you and I would. He therefore raised to 4-Spades. What could the 5-Clubs mean after that? With many it would be an ace-showing bid inviting North to bid slam or give control information himself, if quite strong, and return to 5-Spades if not too well fixed. But this North guessed his partner as not having really meant the 3-Spades as proclaiming a real spade suit, so decided to pass.

Once again South was lucky when West's hand was such that he disliked a diamond lead and chose instead to lead through North's hearts, selecting the 10. Seeing no other hope for his contract, South finessed the Q and it won. The heart A then furnished a discard of a diamond. His next stint was to avoid a spade loser. He led the 4 from dummy and was overjoyed after East's play of the 2 to find his 8 finesse winning the trick. The rest was easy. He lost nothing except two tricks in diamonds.

Being a modest young man—Algot S. Lindberg, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin—he follows his report of this hand with the comment, "I've been behaving myself recently." We should think he would after that.

Crooner Crosby Finances Tape Television Research

By JAMES R. BACON

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Research financed by the golden voice of Bing Crosby is at work today on taped television — a method of recording pictures on magnetic tape.

A lazy way of TV programming, Hollywood sees the new invention as the thing that could lure Bing himself into television.

The method is similar to the tape recording of radio shows that now allows Bing more freedom to fish and golf and otherwise lead the life of Crosby.

Engineers of the Crosby Enterprises estimate that another six months will see commercial use of the process which, they say, will equal live television.

This reporter witnessed a demonstration in which an old movie — of poor quality — was received in the Crosby lab on a standard television set. The telecast was recorded on the magnetic tape and the tape was then fed through the TV receiver.

The taped picture was hazy but nevertheless convincing. In commercial use, the tape recording would be made directly from the television cameras.

Engineer John T. Mullin said the biggest hurdle — getting the picture on tape — has been conquered.

"The degree of quality in sound and picture offers no problem but time," Mullin said.

Mullin, along with Engineer Wayne R. Johnson and Frank C. Healey, executive director of Crosby Electronics, created the process.

Healey says that the artists will love it because "television shows can be made in takes just like movies and many radio shows." If a line is fluffed, the picture can be erased from the tape and done over.

Its biggest commercial asset, however, would be its use in delayed telecasts. Current big headache of coast-to-coast TV sponsors is the three-hour time difference between the East and West coasts. New York audiences see a show at 8 p. m., for instance, while the West coast sees it at 5 p. m. The busy supper hour offers too much competition, sponsors moan.

Mullin sees newsreels taking to the new process because of the speed and low cost. The transformation of the image from a television camera to the tape is instantaneous with no developing needed. The tape can be erased and used over and over again.

Brother Larry Crosby would not disclose how much of Bing's money went into research but did say more than two years of laboratory work was entailed.

He added that the Crosbys do not intend to manufacture or market the recorder.

"We're interested only in the research phase," Larry said.

McCOOK, Neb. (AP) — This headline in the "McCook Gazette" attracted plenty of quizzical second looks:

"Peterson calls issue on Chapman speech six pounds of weinies."

The next day, the newspaper explained it had not intended to indicate that Nebraska Governor Val Peterson was referring to a speech by Interior Secretary Oscar L. Chapman as a "bunch of baloney." The "six pounds of weinies" belonged atop another story.

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) —A bee dived into a motorists face here and caused a honey of an accident. The car of Hugh Davis, 16, driving with one arm and bee fighting with the other, jumped a Cairo curb and tried to climb a tree. Davis climbed from the wreckage with cuts, hoping the blamed bee was killed in the crash.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"With the world on the brink of war, I feel it's our duty to be prepared, dear . . . I bought a new car! . . ."

Merry-Go-Round

Likewise with Eisenhower. He has no more control over the number of troops France will send him than General Washington had over the size of the Pennsylvania militia.

Out of Washington's experience with the 13 colonies, there was gradually forged a United States of America. And out of Eisenhower's experience there may emerge a United States of Europe.

However, he needs a lot of political help from the State Department, from the British, and from American public opinion — help which he isn't getting.

For instance, he has been trying to get the French to build jet engines in their own factories, but using British blueprints. He argues that the British have about the best jet engine in the world, so there is no use having the French spend a year fussing over new plans to develop their own engine. Ike wants production right now. The French have the factories, but also they have the national pride that demands that they develop their own blueprints.

Disastrous Pride

This illustration could be duplicated a dozen times. The chief reason Europe remains economically unstable, unsound and without our support would be bankrupt, is the conflicting criss-cross of boundaries, customs barriers, and national prides which demand a steel industry for both France and Belgium, when one industry in one country could easily supply both countries.

The United States is the only nation in the world which has solved the problem of federal government while preserving a fair degree of states rights. A similar federal unity is what Europe needs more than anything else.

Without it her people know there will be unemployment, human misery and eventually war. But with it and with the equality of human endeavor inherent in our Declaration of Independence, Europe can have genuine, not cash-and-carry hope. And with hope, the phony promises of communism fade away.

These two American principles will not be easy to sell Europe, but the alternative is a continual flow of loans across the Atlantic, plus a continual flow of troops — until the American people either rebel or are sucked dry and bled white.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"With the world on the brink of war, I feel it's our duty to be prepared, dear . . . I bought a new car! . . ."

Merry-Go-Round

tered out. Washington had no control over them except the appeal to patriotism.

Likewise with Eisenhower. He has no more control over the number of troops France will send him than General Washington had over the size of the Pennsylvania militia.

Out of Washington's experience with the 13 colonies, there was gradually forged a United States of America. And out of Eisenhower's experience there may emerge a United States of Europe.

However, he needs a lot of political help from the State Department, from the British, and from American public opinion — help which he isn't getting.

For instance, he has been trying to get the French to build jet engines in their own factories, but using British blueprints. He argues that the British have about the best jet engine in the world, so there is no use having the French spend a year fussing over new plans to develop their own engine. Ike wants production right now. The French have the factories, but also they have the national pride that demands that they develop their own blueprints.

Disastrous Pride

This illustration could be duplicated a dozen times. The chief reason Europe remains economically unstable, unsound and without our support would be bankrupt, is the conflicting criss-cross of boundaries, customs barriers, and national prides which demand a steel industry for both France and Belgium, when one industry in one country could easily supply both countries.

The United States is the only nation in the world which has solved the problem of federal government while preserving a fair degree of states rights. A similar federal unity is what Europe needs more than anything else.

Without it her people know there will be unemployment, human misery and eventually war. But with it and with the equality of human endeavor inherent in our Declaration of Independence, Europe can have genuine, not cash-and-carry hope. And with hope, the phony promises of communism fade away.

These two American principles will not be easy to sell Europe, but the alternative is a continual flow of loans across the Atlantic, plus a continual flow of troops — until the American people either rebel or are sucked dry and bled white.

Float Entered

After the ceremony, the parade continued to Harrison Street to disband. No awards were given for participating units, but one float was entered by Camp 6, Grove 11, Woodmen of the World.

Generally conceded the best marching units in the parade were the National Guard, Fort Hill High School Junior Band, Allegany High School Band and Fulton Myers Post, American Legion.

Constructive Citizenship Is Student Council Objective

NEW POLICE CHIEF—Harry J. Gift, was recently appointed new chief of police at Keyser, W. Va., at a special meeting of Mayor Chester J. Compton and the city council of that community. One of the key extracurricular activities in virtually every high school in Allegany County is the Student Council program, which encourages constructive citizenship in school life.

Student Councils, in the first place, give schoolboys and girls a beginning taste of democracy. Representatives to Student Council are elected by popular vote of their classmates. Generally, each homeroom elects its own representative and the entire student body votes on the officers, who form the cabinet.

Promote Campaigns

These representative student groups play an important role by promoting campaigns which tend to encourage better school citizenship in the community. For instance, just last month, an effort was made to reduce vandalism at Halloween by encouraging the pupils to enjoy the occasion constructively. During Allegany County Safety Week, Student Councils provided the promotional push. In some schools programs are carried on by the Student Council to get more cooperative behavior in cafeterias.

Student Councils also give boys and girls a better understanding of the problems that face school administrators. This happens through actual participation with school officials in some phase of administration.

New Organization

Greater cooperation among the Student Councils around the county is envisioned through a new organization formed only last month. This is the Allegany County Association of Student Councils. Last week the group, composed of the officers of fice Student Councils, met at Beall High School in Frostburg for a mutual discussion of problems.

Five schools, Fort Hill, Bruce, Barton, Beall and Central, belong to the county association. Invitations have been extended to 14 public senior and junior high schools as well as parochial schools. Representatives from Allegany, Carver, Ursuline and LaSalle, all of Cumberland, and Cresaptown Junior High School also attended as guests.

Student Council activities cover a wide range. R. O. McCullough, principal of Central High School at Lonaconing, for instance, lists 11 activities in which the Student Forum there is engaging. These include county student government organization, state student government organization, supervising plans for all social events, monitoring school finances, setting up a constitution, opening assemblies, conducting one assembly program, sponsoring a formal dance, planning and conducting events in the program for orienting new pupils, codifying school awards practices and training for participating in a full student forum.

Seeks GOP Backing In Senate Contest

H. Grady Gore, Rockville, candidate for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate, will be principal speaker at a public rally Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The Montgomery County businessman recently announced he will seek the seat now being held by Senator Herbert O'Conor, whose term expires next year.

Gore said he has been greatly encouraged as a result of a tour of all the counties of Maryland and with thousands of voters and Republican party workers.

Calling for a return to clean-cut, honest and constructive national government, Gore said he has been greatly encouraged by the suport that has sprung from his grass roots approach to the coming election.

Gore operates the Gore real estate properties, with extensive dealings in the Washington area in Montgomery County.

A native of Tennessee, he received his law degree at the age of 21 and entered the real estate and insurance business for several years.

He moved to Hagerstown in 1927, then to Washington and finally to Rockville, his present home, in 1943.

Gore is recognized as the second Republican candidate in the filed. Rep. J. Glenn eBall, Sixth District, has not formally announced his candidacy but has indicated that if encouraged he will enter the Senate race.

Senator O'Conor has not disclosed his future intentions but it is felt generally that he will seek reelection, the Associated Press said.

Male Chorus Concerts Set

The American Male Chorus, a group of 16 veterans of World War II, will present a series of free public concerts this weekend in Cumberland.

The group will appear at Allegany High School auditorium Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p. m., and on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

Sponsored by the Music Department of the Allegany County Board of Education, the program will include all type of male voice singing under direction of Lewis Bullock, former Army officer of the Black Hawk Division.

Representing almost all branches of the Armed Forces, the group, which received discharges as a unit in California, gave concerts before over 500,000 soldiers in the Orient during World War II. The chorus appeared here in Cumberland during the past two years and sang in Constitution Hall, Washington, D. C., the past two evenings.

The American Male Chorus formed at Manila in December, 1945, and has remained together as a unit and has been conducting a national good will tour of the United States since. Highlighting the weekend programs will be a "Ballad For Americans."

Potato Prices Become Higher Without U. S. Parity Support

Potatoes are now bringing higher prices since government price support was removed last July. For the first time in many years, an extraordinary transformation has taken place in the potato production picture.

This year's potato crop is expected to sell for $750,000,000 as against the $324,000,000 of last year which included $65,000,000 of government support. Back of this amazing success story is the significant fact that this year's potato acreage is about half of that during the price support years.

During the past two months, potato prices have been increasing almost weekly. Buyers in the East were quoted recently as bidding as high as $3.50 a hundred pounds, as against $1.75 two months ago. Under price support, these same growers received only about 91 cents a 100 pounds.

One reason for the potato boom is the fact that the Canadian crop has been poor, and Maine Growers are exporting millions of pounds to Canada. This is a reversal of what happened last year when Canada, with a big crop, exported a flood of "spuds" to the United States.

Now, after having urged growers for years to cut down potato acreage, the government is urging planting by some 56,000 acres.

An area Army Korean veteran, who was twice wounded and now wears the Silver Star for heroism in action, will be enlisted in the U. S. Navy at Baltimore today.

Jimmie Fox Pritts, 21, of 202 Church Street, Garrett, Pa., will enlist for a "four-year-hitch" in the Navy after having seen more than two years of action with the Army in Korea.

Serving with the famous "Fox" Company which has been publicized as one of the "toughest outfits o battle against the Reds in Korea," Pritts saw much of the action in the early part of the battle when the U. N. forces were being pushed back to the southern coast. "Fox" Company is Company "F", 23rd Infantry, 2nd Division.

During the battle in Korea, Pritts was wounded twice, first on August 23, 1950 and the second time on March 3, 1951.

He was awarded the Silver Star Medal with another soldier who together rescued a wounded buddy on "Banzi Hill" while under fire. The wounded comrade was William C. Sowers, of West Virginia.

Besides the Silver Star, Pritts is the proud wearer of the Occupation of Japan Medal, the Purple Heart with one cluster, the Korean Service Medal with five bronze company stars and the Korean presentation "V" Citation.

Pritts enlisted in the U. S. Army here at the Cumberland recruiting office October 13, 1947. He received his basic training at Fort Dix, N. J. and was dispatched to Camp Stoneman, Calif., for shipment to Japan. He served in Japan for approximately one and a half years and was then sent into the fighting in Korea for a year and four months.

When he arrived in the United States again, Pritts soon married the former Miss Eyvonne Anderson, of Seattle, Wash., August 26, 1951.

A member of Norman W. Yutzy Post No. 861, American Legion, at Garrett, he has played professional baseball as pitcher for the organization. He began playing the sport when he was 17 years of age. He continued to play Class A baseball while he was stationed in Japan, at Camp Hoggin during 1949 and 1950.

Council To Get Ordinances On Street Changes

Action On Smoke Report Is Slated

Ordinances calling for the closing of the Williams Street crossing and for the closing of portions of Thomas Street will be introduced at a meeting of the Mayor and Council today at 10 a. m.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last week the ordinances have been prepared and will be introduced at today's meeting.

Will Speed Traffic

The closing of the Williams Street crossing was requested by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to speed up the entrance of eastbound trains into the yards and reduce blocking of the Baltimore Street crossing.

Baltimore and Ohio officials and the Mayor and Council came to agreement on four points on the crossing proposal early this month.

Work Is Underway

The ordinance will provide for the closing of three alleys, High Street, parts of Thomas Street affected by the elimination of two death curves on the street and part of West Third Street.

It will also provide for the transfer to the city, without charge, of areas needed for the 830 feet relocation project.

Relocation of the street, the B. and O. said, will enable it to improve the alignment of tracks in that area. The addition of three new eastbound receiving tracks will follow.

Under the agreement, the railroad wiss eliminate two bad curves, build concrete sidewalks on the east side of the relocated street and replace sewer and water lines, all at the railroad's expense.

Smoke Report Due

Mayor Post said the report and recommendations of the Mayor and Council on Tucker's smoke survey should be presented today.

He said the city officials have been studying the comprehensive report for some time and are ready to take some official action.

The program for the Tree Lighting Ceremony in Riverside Park December 16 and general plans for the decorations in park areas of the city are well under way, he added.

The South Cumberland Businessmen's Association will be in charge of South End's Yule celebration at Fourth and Race Streets.

New Postal Act Reduces Package Size, Weight

Will Be Effective After January 1

Because of a new law approved by Congress last month, the present limits of size and weight of parcel post matter mailed from a first class post office to another first class post office have been reduced, effective January 1.

Since the Cumberland post office is a first class office, these reductions will affect a large number of parcels mailed here, Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, said.

The new law states "that on fourth class (parcel post) matter the limit of size shall be 72 inches in girth and length combined, and the limit of weight shall be over eight ounces and not exceeding 40 pounds in the first and second zones and 20 pounds in the third to eighth zones."

Exceptions Noted

Conlon pointed out some exceptions to this act, however. He said any parcels mailed at any second, third or fourth class post office or for delivery by any rural or star route carrier, the weight and size limits would not be reduced.

The same exceptions would apply if a parcel is mailed at any second, third or fourth class post office or any rural or star route.

For example, Conlon explained, if a person from Cumberland mailed a package addressed for delivery to Baltimore or Chicago which are first class post offices, he would be restricted by the new limits in size and weight. On the other hand, if the same person mailed the package to a rural route in Baltimore or Chicago, he would not be restricted.

Persons from any rural route may send packages to any post office without restriction of size or weight.

Agricultural Commodities

The new law also states that the new limits would not apply to packages containing baby fowl, live plants, trees, shrubs or agricultural commodities, or packages made up of books, permanently bound for preservation, consisting wholly of reading matter and containing no advertising matter other than incidental announcements of books.

The final phase of the new act states that parcels "mailed in the United States for delivery by any Army or Fleet post office or in any territory or possession of the United States, the limit size shall be 100 places for delivery to the United States, the limit siz shall be 100 inches in girth and length combined and the limit in weight shall be over eight ounces and not exceeding 70 pounds.

Overseas Mail Deadline Near

To insure delivery of Christmas gifts for servicemen overseas, packages should be mailed before November 15 in order to make sure they reach their destination in time.

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, said packages should not weigh over 70 pounds and must not exceed 100 inches in length and girth combined. He stated that in some APO areas, other weight and customs restrictions apply and information about these may be obtained at the Post Office.

Conlon stressed the need for tough, strong boxes for overseas gifts. These packages are tossed into the hold of a ship for shipment and sometimes many tons of packages and mail are placed together, he said.

He said gifts should be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard or strong doublefaced corrugated fiberboard testing at least 200 pounds. Boxes should be wrapped with heavy paper and tied with strong cord.

Christmas cards for overseas should be mailed not later than November 15 and should go first class. Cards sent air mail should be sent not later than December 1.

One reason for the potato boom is the fact that the Canadian crop has been poor, and Maine Growers are exporting millions of pounds to Canada. This is a reversal of what happened last year when Canada, with a big crop, exported a flood of "spuds" to the United States.

Now, after having urged growers for years to cut down potato acreage, the government is urging planting by some 56,000 acres.

Council To Get Ordinances On Street Changes

Action On Smoke Report Is Slated

Ordinances calling for the closing of the Williams Street crossing and for the closing of portions of Thomas Street will be introduced at a meeting of the Mayor and Council today at 10 a. m.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last week the ordinances have been prepared and will be introduced at today's meeting.

Will Speed Traffic

The closing of the Williams Street crossing was requested by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to speed up the entrance of eastbound trains into the yards and reduce blocking of the Baltimore Street crossing.

Baltimore and Ohio officials and the Mayor and Council came to agreement on four points on the crossing proposal early this month.

The railroad proposal included the construction of a foot bridge for pedestrian traffic.

Work Is Underway

The $420,000 project, part of a long-range improvement program planned by the B. and O. in the Cumberland terminal, is already underway.

The ordinance will provide for the closing of three alleys, High Street, parts of Thomas Street affected by the elimination of two death curves on the street and part of West Third Street.

It will also provide for the transfer to the city, without charge, of areas needed for the 830 feet relocation project.

Relocation of the street, the B. and O. said, will enable it to improve the alignment of tracks in that area. The addition of three new eastbound receiving tracks will follow.

Under the agreement, the railroad wiss eliminate two bad curves, build concrete sidewalks on the east side of the relocated street and replace sewer and water lines, all at the railroad's expense.

Smoke Report Due

Mayor Post said the report and recommendations of the Mayor and Council on Tucker's smoke survey should be presented today.

He said the city officials have been studying the comprehensive report for some time and are ready to take some official action.

Will Be Effective After January 1

Because of a new law approved by Congress last month, the present limits of size and weight of parcel post matter mailed from a first class post office to another first class post office have been reduced, effective January 1.

Since the Cumberland post office is a first class office, these reductions will affect a large number of parcels mailed here, Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, said.

The new law states "that on fourth class (parcel post) matter the limit of size shall be 72 inches in girth and length combined, and the limit of weight shall be over eight ounces and not exceeding 40 pounds in the first and second zones and 20 pounds in the third to eighth zones."

Exceptions Noted

Conlon pointed out some exceptions to this act, however. He said any parcels mailed at any second, third or fourth class post office or for delivery by any rural or star route carrier, the weight and size limits would not be reduced.

The same exceptions would apply if a parcel is mailed at any second, third or fourth class post office or any rural or star route.

For example, Conlon explained, if a person from Cumberland mailed a package addressed for delivery to Baltimore or Chicago which are first class post offices, he would be restricted by the new limits in size and weight. On the other hand, if the same person mailed the package to a rural route in Baltimore or Chicago, he would not be restricted.

Persons from any rural route may send packages to any post office without restriction of size or weight.

Agricultural Commodities

The new law also states that the new limits would not apply to packages containing baby fowl, live plants, trees, shrubs or agricultural commodities, or packages made up of books, permanently bound for preservation, consisting wholly of reading matter and containing no advertising matter other than incidental announcements of books.

The final phase of the new act states that parcels "mailed in the United States for delivery by any Army or Fleet post office or in any territory or possession of the United States, the limit size shall be 100 places for delivery to the United States, the limit siz shall be 100 inches in girth and length combined and the limit in weight shall be over eight ounces and not exceeding 70 pounds.

Overseas Mail Deadline Near

To insure delivery of Christmas gifts for servicemen overseas, packages should be mailed before November 15 in order to make sure they reach their destination in time.

Thomas F. Conlon, local postmaster, said packages should not weigh over 70 pounds and must not exceed 100 inches in length and girth combined. He stated that in some APO areas, other weight and customs restrictions apply and information about these may be obtained at the Post Office.

Conlon stressed the need for tough, strong boxes for overseas gifts. These packages are tossed into the hold of a ship for shipment and sometimes many tons of packages and mail are placed together, he said.

He said gifts should be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard or strong doublefaced corrugated fiberboard testing at least 200 pounds. Boxes should be wrapped with heavy paper and tied with strong cord.

Matches, lighter fluid or other dangerous articles are prohibited.

Christmas cards for overseas should be mailed not later than November 15 and should go first class. Cards sent air mail should be sent not later than December 1.

More than a score of musical and military units marched in the five-division parade. Thomas F. Conlon was parade marshal, and aides were Philip Fleming, J. Patrick Farrell, Robert Doty, Bashor Cross, Heyl Walker, J. Robert McConnell, William Coble and Carl Goetz. The parade halted before a reviewing stand at Baltimore and George streets, where civic and military leaders paid tribute to Master Sgt. Biehn, who was retiring after 30 years of Army service, 25 years of which he spent as a recruiter in Cumberland.
